Awful Accident Brings Grief to Homes at Findlay, O.

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

Victims Urged to Work on Sunday So Company Could Fill Orders.

PLANT WAS BLOWN TO ATOMS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Findlay, O., May 22.—In a terrific explosion at the plant of the Lake Shore Novelty Company, this morning, five lives were instantly snuffed out, two others were lost within an hour, and five more are so fearfully injured that they cannot possibly live. Five others, who are missing, are supposed to have been blown to atoms in the awful disaster.

THE DEAD.

JOSEPH SHERWOOD, aged 24, of West Park.
JAY SHERWOOD, aged 21, of West Park.
EDITH DILLON, aged 17, of West Park.
MARY SNIDER, aged 22, of Lynn street.
DEAN SHAW, aged 18.
ESTELLA DECKER, aged 15, was still living when found, but died soon afterward.
FRANK GRANT, died soon after his removal to his home in Shinkle street.

FATALLY INJURED.

MAGGIE LOGAN, of the North Side; shoulder broken, face cut and skull laid bare, lungs and internal organs crushed.
THOMAS BOCK, of Walnut street; struck in the back by a flying barrel; both arms and shoulders are broken and injured internally.
CLAUDE SHAW, twin brother of Dean Shaw; leg broken and lungs crushed.
EFFIE PETERMAN; caught under falling debris and internally injured.
ROY PETERMAN; caught under a mass of falling timbers and internally injured.

OTHERS INJURED.

CARRIE PETERMAN, aged 17; breast and lungs crushed; arms, head, face and eyes burned.
MAY DAVIS, who was working beside Carrie Peterman, and whose injuries are almost the same.
LOUIS WEINGARTNER; hip fractured and otherwise bruised.
MINNIE DOLL; seriously burned.
MRS. J. M. DOLL, forewoman; severely burned and cut.
MINNIE QUINLAN, forewoman; head and shoulders badly cut and burned.
MRS. A. J. PETERMAN, mother of Effie and Roy Peterman; burned and cut about the head and shoulders.
J. S. LEARY; sustained cuts and burns.
B. C. SWISHER; body scorched and lacerated.
WILLIAM BAUGHMAN; cuts and burns.

Three others who are known to have been at the plant at the time of the explosion were slightly hurt, but their names cannot be obtained tonight. As there were 28 at work when the explosion occurred, there are still three unaccounted for, and it is supposed that they received the full force of the shock and that pieces of their bodies are scattered among the ruins of the building. An unknown tramp, who was seen loitering about the place a short time before the disaster is thought to be among the dead, as he was near the heart of the explosion just a few seconds before.

The Lake Shore Novelty Company is engaged in the manufacture of railway torpedoes and Fourth of July canes and cartridges. Unfilled orders were piling up, and the company offered extra pay to their employes as an inducement to them to work Sundays and 28 men and women consented to do so. Ordinarily there are about 100 employed at the plant, and if the accident had occurred on a week day the catastrophe would have resulted in more fatalities.

The exact cause of the disaster will never be known, as it originated in drying room No. 2, in which the Sherwood boys worked alone. It was just 15 minutes to 7 when a faint rumbling was heard throughout the city. A second later a mighty crash deafened for a moment every one within miles of the Novelty plant, shaking buildings to their foundations and breaking window glass. There was an immediate panic. The eyes of thousands were turned toward the point from which the awful roar seemed to come.

Heartrending Scenes.

They saw a great cloud of blue and white smoke billowing upward in the southeastern part of the city. At first it was conjectured that a nitroglycerin wagon had let go, but the color of the smoke quickly dispelled that belief. Then the refineries were mentioned, but when no black oil smoke was discernible the truth flashed across the minds of all—the Novelty works had blown up. The scenes that followed were heartrending. Relatives of those who were known to have been at work in the place ran screaming and moaning through the streets. Almost before the reverberations of the explosion had died away a frantic throng was at the scene.

Fathers and mothers, agony written on their faces, mingled with the crowd and began a distracted search for loved ones. Their grief-stricken cries joined the shrieks and groans of the wounded and dying, which could be heard for blocks. Women fainted at sight of bloody fragments of human flesh that lay scattered about. Physicians and ambulances were hurriedly summoned and the work of removing the dead to undertakers' rooms and the wounded to hospitals began.

Story from Survivors.

From survivors a partial story of the disaster is gained. J. S. Leary, employed in the mixing room, said:

"My room is in such a position that I could see out the window into drying room No. 1. For some reason I had just looked up from my work when I saw a flash of blue and heard a dull thud. In a twinkling the drying room was blown high in the air, and I was knocked to the floor. I started to get up when a second explosion, louder and more terrible than the first, knocked me down again. Then shrieks and moans filled the air. I managed to gain my feet, and I ran and climbed over a fence.

"For a few minutes I was so terrified that I scarcely knew what I was doing. When I recovered my self-possession and

PITTSBURGH'S NEW ROAD WILL START ON SCHEDULE

Inspection of Nearly 40 Miles of Track Shows That the Date Set, June 19, Will Find Wabash Ready for Good Service.

On June 19 regular service on the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal railway will positively be started. This is the unanimous verdict of a party which passed over nearly 40 miles of track on the new line extending from Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh, to a point in West Virginia within a short distance of the Ohio river.

The party was headed by General Passenger Agent Charles S. Crane of the Wabash proper, and J. W. Patterson, Jr., assistant engineer in charge of the completion of the line. Many stretches of track miles long were in such shape that the special easily made 40 miles an hour and 60 miles would have been safe. Where such completeness was not found it is only a matter of a few days until these places also will be up to the high standard already attained elsewhere on the line.

Modern Grades and Curves.

No more interesting trip has ever been made on a Pittsburgh railroad. An absolutely new line, unique in the boldness of the enterprise that conceived it and bearing many marks of the skill of the engineers who built it, was shown for the first time to those who have known of the progress of the work only by reports and not by personal inspection. Built through one of the roughest parts of the

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, May 22, 5:30 p. m.—During the reconnaissance of Port Arthur, made by Admiral Togo on Friday of last week, a shell hit the torpedo boat destroyer Akatsuik, killing one officer and 24 men.

Shanghai, May 22.—(Special Cable.)—A report reaches here that the Japanese squadron investing Vladivostok yesterday began a vigorous bombardment of that port and under cover of the fire of the fleet torpedo boats were sent into destroy the stranded cruiser Bogatyr. Whether or not the attempt was successful is not known.

Chefoo, May 22.—(Special Cable.)—From Chinese sources comes news of more hard fighting north of Port Arthur. These reports say that the Japanese, heavily reinforced, are attempting to drive in the Russian outposts and that several desperate charges on Russian positions have been successful between Liu Shu Tun and Liu Chow, both sides losing heavily.

It is said that the Japanese force now in front of Port Arthur is not less than 40,000 men, plentifully supplied with both field and siege guns. They now hold positions strongly entrenched within 15 miles of the port itself and are drawing closer constantly. It is believed that they will be ready for the final assault within a week or 10 days.

Fight at Takushan.

TOKYO, May 22.—A supplemental report was received here today, covering the opposition encountered by the Japanese force which landed at Takushan, about 50 miles west of the mouth of the Yalu on May 20.

The Russians consisted of a squadron of the independent trans-Baikal Cossacks. They vigorously resisted the Japanese advance at the bridge and only retreated after one officer and nine men were killed and a number of men were wounded. One Russian officer and four men were captured. The Japanese lost one man killed. The Russians retired in the direction of Hsiu Yen and Shalichai.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 22.—Gen. Kuropatkin today sent the following telegram to Emperor Nicholas:

"Today, in the presence of all the troops here forming the chief force of one of our divisions, a thanksgiving service in honor of St. Nicholas, the miracle worker, was celebrated.

"After a Te Deum I thanked the troops in behalf of your majesty for their valiant self-denying services and personally communicated to them the tenor of your majesty's dispatch of May 20. The troops replied with a hearty cheer to the wishes I expressed for your majesty's health and long life."

Position of Japanese.

A second dispatch from Gen. Kuropatkin to the emperor is as follows:

"Our patrols and cavalry detachments are reconnoitering this side of the Fin-Chou range, 75 miles northeast of Fung-Wang-Cheng.

"The Japanese cover their dispositions by small advance guards, consisting of as much as a regiment of infantry with artillery and cavalry posted along the high roads, and as little as two companies at unimportant points. Japanese cavalry are seldom seen.

"From reports received yesterday, I have concluded that the first Japanese army is concentrated as follows: Two divisions at Fung-Wang-Cheng and its environs and one division at Habalin, half way between Siu-Yen and Fung-Wang-Cheng."

VLADIVOSTOK, May 22.—Vice Admiral Skrydloff arrived here this afternoon. He was met at the Okeadski station, outside of Vladivostok, by Maj. Gen. Voronetz and deputations of the military, naval and municipal authorities, as well as by an enthusiastic crowd and was presented with bread and salt.

HUSBAND SLEW WIFE'S MURDERER

Vicious Italian Shot Her Down as She Stopped to Pick Up a Hat.

VENGEANCE SOON METED OUT

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DUBOIS, PA., May 22.—Robbed of his wife by a murderous Italian who shot the young woman down when she went to pick up her husband's hat, Frank Paul, the husband, avenged the crime within half an hour by slaying the murderer in his tracks. The tragedy occurred at the mining village of Cardiff last evening. Paul is a business man of the place. After the double tragedy he tenderly carried home the body of his wife. When the authorities came to arrest him they found Paul and his three children weeping over the body. He has the sympathy of the entire community.

Paul met Sarerio Pelligreno last evening at the latter's boarding house. The men were friends. During the evening they and others indulged in friendly wrestling matches. The two men disagreed and Paul left his hat lying on the ground, as he preferred to avoid trouble. After reaching home his wife noticed the loss and volunteered to recover the head covering.

The hat was lying on the ground in front of the boarding house, and as she picked it up Pelligreno discharged a shotgun from an upstairs window. The charge struck the young woman in the breast and she fell dead.

Paul, from his store, saw the murder of his young wife. Taking a revolver and shotgun he dashed to the scene and met the murderer coming from the house. Firing, he chased him to an upstairs room, where the murderer barricaded himself. Undisturbed by the crowd now gathered about the place Paul, who had secured a shotgun, stood on guard in the hallway. After half an hour Pelligreno, his suspicions quieted by hearing no stir, stuck his head through the door. Quick as a flash Paul fired, killing the murderer of his wife on the spot. After examining the body to see that no life remained, Paul picked up his wife's dead body and tenderly carried it to his home.

Paul will be held to await the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Pelligreno's body was turned over to the authorities and friends of Paul took charge of his wife's body, the three children being taken care of by women in the neighborhood. Paul, who is a small tradesman in the village, is well known and popular. His wife was about 26 years old. Pelligreno was not well thought of in the village, owing to several affairs in which he is said to have been concerned. He is said to have been of a quarrelsome disposition and was not well liked among his fellow-boarders.

Turks Will Destroy Many Towns.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 22.—It is said that the authorities contemplate destroying all Armenian villages in the Sasoun district of Asia Minor in order to prevent the concentration of insurgents in the mountains and the installation of the villagers on the plain where they may be better supervised.

FAMOUS LAWYER HAS PASSED AWAY

Richard C. Dale of Philadelphia Dead at Home at Chesnut Hill.

END OF A LINGERING ILLNESS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 22.—Richard C. Dale, one of Philadelphia's distinguished lawyers, died at his home in Chestnut Hill late yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness from heart trouble.

Mr. Dale was born in Philadelphia March 29, 1853. He entered the University of Pennsylvania in 1868 and was graduated in 1872. He studied law in the office of Judge Robert N. Willson and was admitted to the bar June 5, 1875. Two years later he became president of the law academy.

Mr. Dale was widely known as a member of the firm of Bullitt, Dickson & Dale. His initial practice for a period of five years was carried on with Judge Willson. It was in 1880, at the time of the famous litigation of McCalmont Bros. & Co. of London, and President Gowen and his friends in the first receivership of the Reading Railroad Company that Mr. Dale became part of the law firm of which he remained a member.

John C. Bullitt, who, with Mr. Dickson, had more work than he could perform in that litigation, asked Mr. Dale to come to his assistance, which the latter consented to do. Bonds of friendship and business became so cemented that they were severed only by the death of Mr. Bullitt a few years ago.

Mr. Dale came to be recognized as one of the best lawyers at the bar not only as counsel in the office, but also in jury trials and in arguments before appellate courts. He has figured in many important cases, not only in the courts of this and other counties of the state and in the Pennsylvania supreme court, but had frequently engaged before the supreme court of the United States and the circuit courts in this and other districts.

Mr. Dale was one of the advisory counsel of the bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese. He was one of the principal editors of the Weekly Notes of Cases. Mr. Dale's family consists of his widow, his mother, one son and three daughters.

THREE ARE MURDERED.

Result of an Italian's Jesting. Fourth Man Is Being Hunted.

MEYERSDALE, PA., May 22.—(Special.)—An Italian named Louie was gathering dandelions at the rear of a boarding house, kept by Dominick Bills, near Elk Lick mines this evening. Bills ordered Louie away jestingly. Louie then cursed Bills, at which Bills pulled a gun and killed him. An unknown Italian then interfered, killing Bills and his cousin, Samuel Bills, who was coming along on a bicycle, who had interfered. The unknown Italian then escaped, but is thought to be hiding in a mine. The sheriff and coroner have been notified, while the town authorities are making a hunt.

DARING LEAP OF BLAZING WOMAN

Sprang from a Third-Story Window With Her Clothing on Fire.

DAUGHTER SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. Annie Marks, aged 55, dropped from a third-story window, and her daughter Sophia, aged 18, was burned during a fire at 20 Wilson alley shortly after 6 o'clock last night. The mother's injuries are slight, but the daughter's are serious. The mother's fall was broken by two men who attempted to catch her and she escaped with a few bruises. The flames in the room were soon extinguished.

Mrs. Marks and her daughter and 6-year-old son room on the third floor at the house of Joseph Tomilson. The mother and daughter were in the room all afternoon. About 6 o'clock Mrs. Marks saturated herself with gasoline and then, pouring gasoline on the bed clothing, splashed some on the lighted stove. An explosion followed. The girl was caught in the flames and badly burned.

Mrs. Marks climbed out on the sill of the window and, holding to the edge, let her body down. The woman remained hanging there several minutes. John Watt and Tomilson called to the woman to hang there until they could reach her. A puff of flame shot out of the window and the woman dropped. She fell in the arms of the two men. This broke the fall and the woman dropped on the pavement practically unharmed. The flame that puffed out of the window set fire to her clothing.

Watt rushed to the burning room and rescued the daughter from the flames. The girl's clothing was on fire and when they were put out it was found she was badly burned about the body. She was removed to the home of a neighbor and Dr. J. Mishkin of 1007 Wylie avenue was summoned. He attended the injuries of both women.

QUAY AT BEAVER.

Senator Is Removed from Morganza to His Old Home.

Senator M. S. Quay is at his home in Beaver. He reached there yesterday afternoon from Morganza and stood the journey well.

Senator Quay had intended to go to Beaver this week. Yesterday being such a pleasant day, he decided to make the trip to his home. The private car of James McCrea of the Pennsylvania company was sent to Morganza to convey him to Beaver. The senator was accompanied by members of his family, Dr. Lawrence Litchfield and Col. Samuel Moody. The special did not come into the city, but was switched over the Ohio Connecting bridge to the Pennsylvania lines.

From Beaver it was learned that Mr. Quay had stood the trip well and was resting easy last night. His friends believe that there is an improvement in his condition. Since he went to Morganza he has been able to take more nourishment.

MONACO PRINCE CAUSED RUPTURE

Head of Monte Carlo Gambling Palace Made Trouble Between France and Vatican.

NUNICO AT PARIS TO REMAIN

ROME, May 22.—Vatican authorities continue to be agitated over the conflict with the French government growing out of the protest against President Loubet's visit to Rome and the recall of M. Nisard, the French ambassador to the vatican.

The pope said mass this morning in the presence of 64 Italians and foreigners and gave up the rest of the day to the consideration of the difficulties with France, reading clippings from the newspapers on the subject.

The question as to how L'Humanite of Paris became possessed of the note of protest addressed to the other powers, which varied from that sent to the French government, is daily becoming more interesting. It seems to be now certain, as was at first supposed, that the indiscretion was due to the principality of Monaco, the vatican's note to which was stronger than that addressed to the other Catholic states in consequence of the vatican having been informed that Prince Albert of Monaco intended to visit the king of Italy.

Dreyfus Involved.

A further reason why the note to the principality of Monaco was more emphatic, it is said at the vatican, was because Prince Albert was the friend of Capt. Dreyfus, who had worked against the French government and also because the Clerico-Nationalists were in accord with M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, who originated the present agitation.

It is said that Prince Albert was offended because the late Pope Leo at his last jubilee refused the Peter's pence sent by Monaco because the money had its source in gambling operations. The relations between Prince Albert and the vatican became more strained when the latter rejected Professor Kleln, translator of the works of Bishop John J. Spalding of Peoria, Ill., who was proposed by Prince Albert as bishop of Monaco.

PARIS, May 22.—The recall of M. Nisard, French ambassador to the vatican, continues to be the absorbing topic. The ambassador is expected to arrive here tomorrow morning, when he will confer with Foreign Minister Delcasse and go over the details of the rupture preliminary to the meeting of the council of ministers on Tuesday.

Lorenzelli to Remain.

Contrary to general expectation, Monsignor Lorenzelli, the papal nuncio at Paris, will not leave his post. The nuncature has given out the following statement:

"Up to the present the nuncio has received no orders to take his leave, although the state of his health might make it desirable. As Rome has no taste for replying to provocations, but is sorely conscious of her rights and duties, Monsignor Lorenzelli does not regard the eventuality of his leave as proximate."

The tone of the Socialist papers indicates that that element has urged the government to take more extreme measures. Deputy Gerait Richard says that the matter must proceed until the concordat has been ended, and M. Clemenceau ridicules the granting of leave to Ambassador Nisard as being wholly inadequate and says that it is a recall which does not recall and a rupture which does not rupture.

The Rome correspondent of the Temps says that vatican official circles lay great stress upon the fact that the pope alone directs the policy of the holy see. When Cardinals Vannutelli, Gotti, Agliardi and Vivesy Tuto saw the pope on Thursday and Friday, according to the correspondent, his holiness foreshadowed the first stage of the conflict, namely, the recall of Ambassador Nisard, but he decired so energetically that he was responsible to God alone for his action, and was acting thus for the greatest good of the church that the cardinals did not dare to remonstrate.

Boy Hit With a Brick.

Thomas Lavelle, aged 13, of 54 Welsh row, South Side, was struck on the head by a brick thrown by some unknown person last night, and seriously wounded. He was playing with a number of boys at South Twelfth and Railroad streets.

TAYLOR MURDER IS A MYSTERY

Grace Bottorf Arrested, but Has Clear Proof of Alibi.

MAY HAVE BEEN BY ROBBERS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CANTON, O., May 22.—Charged with the murder of her alleged husband, George H. Taylor, owner of the American woolen mill, a tailoring establishment of Canton, and brother of William Taylor, head bartender in the Nixon cafe, Pittsburgh, pretty Grace Bottorf was arrested at her home in West Fifth street shortly after Taylor was shot and killed, early this morning. Grace Bottorf and Taylor had been the principals in a mock marriage ceremony performed in the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, about a year ago. Six months later Taylor told the girl that the ceremony which she supposed was legal had been performed by a friend attired in the garb of a minister.

Since that day the supposed husband and wife have lived apart, although the latter has served as cashier in the Taylor store. Quarrels have been frequent and Taylor has paid marked attention to women in Canton, Canal Dover and Alliance. When arrested the woman showed remarkable calmness and denied all knowledge of the crime. The landlady of her boarding house and several of its occupants contended that the girl was in her room several hours before the murder and had not left the place after she retired.

Another woman, Lillian Taylor, whose residence is unknown, has made trips to Canton frequently to visit Taylor, who, she claimed, was her husband. On the person of the dead man was found a paper containing articles of agreement between Taylor and Lillian Taylor whereby the custody of their son, Ralph, was given to the former.

In the rear of the store a .38 Colt revolver and a woman's mackintosh were found. The garment was of large proportions and could have been worn by a man. The footprints of a high heel in the mud back of the store indicate that the crime was committed by a woman, but the shoes of Miss Bottorf do not fit the tracks.

One theory of the killing which is generally accepted by the police makes the motive robbery, as Taylor had several hundred dollars on his person.

Taylor, as he staggered out of the front door of his store after he was shot, where a friend, Patsy Haley, was waiting, said:

"Patsy, I am shot. Grace did it."

Taylor closed his store about 11 o'clock, but later returned with Haley to secure an overcoat which hung in the rear of the store. The police argue that the woman knew nothing of Taylor's intention to return to the store. Her alibi is upheld by the landlady, Mrs. Baskerville, and the authorities do not doubt its accuracy. After the shooting Taylor was taken to the city prison, where he soon died. In his last moments he refused to make any statement regarding the murder. Three shots were fired, one taking effect.

Miss Bottorf is a brunette, refined and the daughter of a prominent doctor in Ashtabula, O. Her acquaintance with Taylor began in Ashtabula two years ago while he managed a tailor shop there. She is a graduate of the Ashtabula schools, 21 years of age and has acquired reputation as a pianist.

Miss Bottorf had a key to the store which she now says she lost. This is one of the pieces of circumstantial evidence being used against her.

Other circumstantial evidence that points against her is that she quarreled with Taylor Thursday and was discharged from employment with the company. She admits that when he said he would shoot her if she bothered him any more she replied:

"Not if I shoot you first."

Lillian Taylor, claiming to be Taylor's real wife, invoked the aid of the local police several weeks ago, asking that Taylor be shadowed with reference to his relations with other women.

GAMBLERS WERE NOT IN EVIDENCE

County Detective Robinson Makes Fruitless Search for Sunday Lawbreakers.

BASEBALL GAMES WERE MANY

Gamblers and other law breakers were absent from their favorite haunts yesterday and even High bridge hollow, scene of the riots last summer, had nothing more terrifying than an amateur ball game. The old Sugar Camp and Ross Grove about Aspinwall were equally quiet, as was the orchard just below Schoenville along the Ohio river. County Detective Robinson spent the day looking for crap games, shell layouts and wheels of fortune.

The pleasant weather caused scores of people to take to the country, and it was expected gamblers would be prepared to reap a harvest. The duty of preventing any lawlessness devolved upon Detective Robinson.

About noon he started to look over the situation with the lower end of the Chartiers valley and the district lying just below McKees Rocks as his objective. The location of one or two alleged speakeasies along Chartiers creek was noted, and the information will be given the district attorney today.

Like a Big Picnic.

Robinson expected there would be something doing in the orchard, which extends from Schoenville to the Ohio river at Davis island. It seemed as though the entire foreign population of Schoenville had moved out under the trees. At least 600 people were there, but there was no sign of disorder. The gathering resembled a picnic. Two or three ball games were being played between teams of Hungarians, Slavs, Poles and Italians, many of whom could not speak English, but they all seemed to understand the great American sport.

The leaders in the fun were informed by Robinson that their frolic could continue providing beer and gambling were kept off the program. This was agreed to.

One of the foreigners wanted to know if there was any law prohibiting swimming, and when answered in the negative, took the officer to the river bank, where about 20 men and boys were disporting themselves in the muddy waters of the Ohio.

"These people have to work pretty hard during the week and I guess they have a good time coming to them once in awhile," remarked Robinson.

Residents Acted Guards.

High bridge hollow was the next place visited. Three ball games were in progress when the detective arrived, but gamblers were nowhere to be seen. After searching the hollow for about a mile and finding nothing of a serious nature, Robinson called together the managers of the baseball teams, among them being two comedians of Monteoth borough.

They, too, were told that they could play all the baseball they wished if they promised to keep the place free from gamblers and beer drinking parties. They were reminded of the riots last summer. Several residents of the locality told the officer they had taken particular pains to keep the district free from the disorderly element, and in case of trouble would notify him at once.

There were several hundred people sitting about on the hillsides watching the ball games, among them being many workingmen with their wives and children.

No More Camping.

After leaving High bridge the county officer went to Sugar Camp, just above Aspinwall. In former years this place had been a Mecca for crap shooters and shell men who conducted their games in the numerous camps along the Allegheny river. This place was so bad that last summer the superintendent of the workhouse complained to the district attorney.

Yesterday the woods along the river at this point were practically deserted except for a number of small boys gathering wild flowers. It was learned that the owners of the property have decided to keep the place free from campers this season.

Robinson returned to the city late in the evening satisfied that he had done everything possible for the day. In discussing the trip he said:

"It was a remarkably quiet day, considering the pleasant weather. I had expected to find all the cheap gamblers in the county out and working, but there was no sign of them. I will not interfere with the boys playing baseball games. They don't disturb anybody and it is a great deal better to have them indulging in some good, honest, outdoor sport than to have them shooting craps."

Solitary Cheap Gambler.

One solitary chuckaluck man was met in the course of travel over the Filth road from Aspinwall to Hoboken. He had taken his stand under a tree at a point in the road that commanded a long stretch in both directions. Had County Detective Robinson happened along at that time he could have been detected a half mile away and the chuckaluck man could easily have concealed the evidence of his infraction of the law against gambling.

His apparatus was a barrel turned upside down, a piece of oilcloth with a number of figures painted on it, a dice box and a set of dice. The gambler could be heard a quarter of a mile off coaxing the casual pedestrian to try his luck.

To see how the capper for the game was winning was rather tempting. In quick succession the capper took in dollar after dollar for the mere investment of a quarter. Onlookers' mouths watered at the sight and when the capper's luck was not enough to induce the greenhorn to "come in" the capper, liberal with his winnings, asked one of the bystanders to throw the dice for him. Of course, the greenhorn threw a jackpot with the capper's money, and it was up to him to come in again with his own money; if he fell into the trap he either threw a blank, which lost him his investment, or he kept on throwing jackpots, putting in more money each time until at last a bad throw lost him the money he had put in. Thus the apparent liberality of the capper had cost the gamblers nothing and netted them profits besides.

But pedestrians were few, with Ross grove closed, and finally the chuckaluck sharps rolled up their oilcloth, kicked the barrel to one side of the road and departed. Fifteen minutes later County Detective Robinson was seen coming up the railroad track, but too late to catch the solitary lawbreaker.

Young Highwayman Arrested.

COLUMBIA, PA., May 22.—(Special.)—Three young highwaymen on bicycles held up and robbed Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Young, who reside near Brenneman's tavern, near Glen Manor, last evening. This morning Joseph and Lloyd Stape and Horace Bullock were arrested charged with the crime. It is said one confessed. They are employed in the mills of the Susquehanna Iron and Steel Company.

Hubbard's Body Reaches Halifax.

WABASH TO START ON SCHEDULE

state that can be called actually mountainous, the new railway presents to the operating official today one of the most favorable propositions in the state. In grades and curvature it is modern to the highest degree desirable and the economy of its operation will mean profits for those interested.

In addition, another conception of the road was gained in the surprising beauty of the country through which it runs and which the line itself merely serves to heighten. Valleys, streams, hills and woods combine to make the route the most picturesque lying within 40 miles of this city and the smoothness of track is such that the attention of the passenger is not distracted from nature's kindly work.

Pushing the Rail End.

No time is being wasted in the completion of the line. Close to 1,000 men were at work yesterday, here laying the double track, there ballasting, here making wider the cut where any possibility of landslide exists, and at the end of the road, pushing forward 1,600 to 1,500 feet an hour, with 35 men working like beavers, was the great Hurley automatic track-laying machine, which will soon complete the new line to the Ohio river and end its Wabash labors.

The type of line that the Pittsburgh & Toledo syndicate has financed in order to secure a Gould inlet to the Pittsburgh district is well known, and the difficulties that have been met and overcome in the progress of the work have been the subject of daily articles and common comment for three years and a half. The final triumphs over the troubles have awakened as much pleasure as if the road were entirely a public enterprise, instead of merely a new railroad, public in its duties to be sure, but of private ownership.

Ruling Grade Is Easy.

Starting at the Pittsburgh passenger terminal at Ferry and Liberty, the road rises by a steady 1 per cent grade to the west portal of the Greentree tunnel, a distance of four miles. There the great freight classification yards will be located and the road takes its ruling grade, the line north of that point being in fact a switching line. This ruling grade is seven-tenths of 1 per cent and is evenly maintained to Hickory, Washington county, the summit of the divide between the Monongahela and the Ohio. From that point an easy descent is made to the bridge over the Ohio near Mingo Junction, from which the connection runs to the Wheeling & Lake Erie.

In the course of this line 10 tunnels are bored in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and nine in Ohio, most of them through solid rock. Two of the largest bridges in the country have been built and between these two bridges lie numberless other viaducts of steel and stone and concrete, the road at almost no point being at grade.

The tunnel which holds the palm in this state for length is on this new line, in Greentree borough, Allegheny county, and is 4,750 feet long. Its construction was hastened by the sinking of a shaft in the middle from which gangs of men worked each way, while other gangs drove in from the portals. This shaft will be equipped with a fan and used as a chimney for smoke, thus keeping the tunnel free from the fumes. Like every other tunnel it gives overhead clearance enough to make it possible for a trainman to ride standing on the highest box car in service without danger of being knocked off the train on entering the tunnel.

Factories Being Built.

One of the notable features of the new line is the large number of new industries which are preparing to start along its course. Several factories of good size are partly built and many coal companies are preparing to ship over the line, tipples being in construction or new mines being opened. For the passenger service cities have been secured at advantageous points for the stations and they will soon be occupied by the standard Wabash structure.

The trip of yesterday revealed all of these things with many others that will become public knowledge within a short time. The aim of all connected with the road is not merely to finish a line over which trains can be run, but one of such quality that comfort will attend the trip from the start of service. With that aim the engineering and traffic departments are co-operating heartily and the railroad men on the trip yesterday included representatives of both departments. Besides Messrs. Crane and Patterson, there were in the party William D. Wood, district passenger agent at St. Louis; Col. W. D. Holliday, assistant general freight agent; Col. F. H. Tristram, assistant general passenger agent, and Charles Hamilton, city passenger agent, Pittsburgh.

BAPTISTS AT CLEVELAND.

Many Pulpits Occupied by Delegates to Conventions of Missionary Societies.

CLEVELAND, O., May 22.—The three missionary societies of the Baptist church had charge of today's program of the Baptist anniversaries now being held in this city. The large number of evangelical churches throughout the city were the scenes of enthusiastic gatherings to hear the addresses by delegates and ministers to the convention.

The annual missionary sermon to the Baptist Young People's union was delivered this morning in the Euclid Avenue Baptist church by the Rev. Dr. T. J. Villmore of Indianapolis. This evening two mass meetings were held in the Euclid Avenue and the First Baptist churches.

CAN PAY FOR A SITE.

Church Anniversary Made Memorable by Liberal Contributions of Money.

The fifth anniversary of the Christ English Lutheran church of Wilmerding was observed by the congregation yesterday.

The pastor, the Rev. H. C. Michael, at the two services succeeded in raising the funds necessary to pay off the indebtedness of three lots which were purchased as a site for a new church. The site cost $2,350. The new church will cost about $10,000 or $15,000, and will be built of brick and stone. Mr. Michael preached the anniversary sermon in the morning.

TWO FATALLY INJURED IN MINE NEAR GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG, PA., May 22.—(Special.)—Michael Burk and Edward Heppner, miners employed in the Huff mine of the Keystone Coal and Coke Company, near Seward, were probably fatally injured in an explosion of dynamite yesterday. Although Burk and Heppner had retired to a supposedly safe distance, they were caught in the flames and painfully burned.

Postmaster at Indiana Dead.

INDIANA, PA., May 22.—(Special.)—Samuel Alexander Smith, the postmaster here, died at his home early this morning after a lingering illness, death being caused by a complication of diseases. He was 45 years old. He had always been a stanch Republican, being connected with the Indiana Messenger since 1880, when he secured a half interest in the paper. Since that date he had been editor of the paper. He held several responsible political offices and in 1900 was appointed postmaster, and on May 1 he was reappointed for a second term. He is survived by his widow, one daughter and three sons.

SEVEN DEAD, FIVE DYING AND TEN HURT IN TORPEDO FACTORY

noted that the explosions had ceased I turned and hurried back. The scenes that met my eyes were heartsickening. The bodies of the Sherwood boys were lying in the fire that had already started, and I pulled them out. A little to the west where No. 2 drying room had stood, I saw the forms of the girls who had been working in there and of others who had been hurled out of the packing and molding rooms, which were a mass of ruins.

Talks About Cause.

"With two or three others, who, like myself, were not seriously hurt, I tried to draw the bodies of the dead and injured away from the flames. The crowds were already beginning to gather about the place, and this, added to the hideous sights that met me at every turn, caused me to faint dead away. When I recovered consciousness I was lying on the grass outside the plant.

"What it was that caused the explosion no one can ever tell. But it is my opinion that one of the Sherwood boys dropped a keg of torpedoes that had been dried or else a brush used in cleaning the drying tables was dropped on some of the explosives."

Others who came out of the death hole alive tell substantially the same story as Leary. There were six separate buildings used for weighing, mixing, moulding, drying and packing the explosives manufactured by the company, and every one of these was razed to the ground.

One of the saddest features of the catastrophe is the effect it has had upon William Grote, superintendent and part owner. So keenly does he feel the horror of it all that his mind is affected, and it is feared he will lose his reason. He was standing near the entrance to the grounds when the accident occurred. He was knocked down by the explosion himself, but was not seriously hurt. He is in such a condition mentally tonight that it is impossible to gain any information from him. R. H. Opes, general manager and principal stockholder in the company, did not arrive on the scene until the plant was a ruin, and he is unable to give any information.

First Sunday at Work.

Claude Shaw, twin brother of Dean Shaw, who was killed, was seen at his home. He was struck by a flying door, and will in all probability die. When he was brought to his home he said to his mother, who had urged the boy not to work on Sunday:

"My God! mamma, why did I go? This is the first Sunday I ever worked in my life. And we need money so badly."

Particularly sad is the case of Jay Sherwood, who leaves a widow and a little baby. When he went to work this morning he said to Burley Swisher, who works in the mixing room:

"Burley, if I get out of this today, it will be the last time I shall ever work on Sunday." Two minutes afterward he was dead.

Little Effie Peterman, 15 years old, was found under a large box. A dead body lay on each side of it. When the box was removed the little girl, in the shadow of death, was on her knees, uttering a prayer for her mother and sister, who had also been at work in the building, that God might spare them.

The bodies of the two Sherwoods were stripped of clothing. They were found side by side, imbedded in a mire, 100 feet from the explosion. Although more than a mile from Main street, the explosion shattered window after window in the business section of that street. In the immediate vicinity of the catastrophe the havoc is fearful; buildings are askew on their foundations and there are only big holes in walls where windows once were. The thunderous report was clearly heard in Kenton, 26 miles away.

Nearly all the victims are comparatively young children. A few had reached maturity, but most of them, particularly the girls, were still in their teens. In many instances they were the breadwinners for poor families and their sudden death has cut off the means of livelihood. Ever since a similar horror at the Fox magazine, several months ago, the employes of the novelty plant here were seized with fear that they might meet a like fate. Some of the workers had a premonition that an awful accident would soon occur, and the company experienced difficulty in securing enough help to operate the plant.

The parents of Frank Grant state tonight that he regained consciousness just before he died, and said: "The accident was caused by a fire in the drying room. That is how I happened to be pumping a pail of water. The room was overheated, and twice before this week some of the powder started to burn and I had to put out the flames.

Family Wiped Out.

Late reports tonight from the City hospital, where Mrs. Peterman and her two children were taken, are to the effect that in all probability the entire family will die. It was at first stated that Mrs. Peterman was but slightly hurt about the head and shoulders, but later developments show that she was internally injured and that nervous excitement over the condition of her children enabled her to bear up and appear to the physicians less seriously hurt than she really was.

The pecuniary loss of the company will be comparatively small so far as the plant itself is concerned. The buildings were not expensive ones, and it is believed that $60,000 will cover this item of damage. The Findlay tube factory and the National refinery will both suffer heavy damage, the former in glass and ruined lumber and the latter in demolished pipe lines.

Late this afternoon an arm was picked up nearly 1,000 feet from the wrecked works. The discovery is regarded as almost certain confirmation of the report that three more names will have to be added to the list of dead, as so far all the parts of the bodies of victims have been found.

Coroner Balsley was on the scene soon after the explosion and he says that a searching investigatoin will be made to the end of fixing the blame for the awful loss of human life. This evening he went to the Grant home with a view to obtaining definite information regarding the alleged ante-mortem statement of Frank Grant that the drying room was overheated. If this statement can be substantiated, it is said that there will be little difficulty in placing the blame.

MUST FORCE NAVAL OFFICERS TO RETIRE

Department Has Not Enough Vacancies to Make Promotions Required by Law.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Orders have been issued for the convening of the naval "plucking" board. Rear Admirals Benham and Ramsey, retired, Higginson and Lambert have membership upon it. This board will carry into effect one of the most obnoxious provisions of the naval personnel act of 1899. It provides that in any year when the vacancies in all grades of the navy through ordinary casualties shall not have reached a total of 40, which is the number deemed requisite to give the commissioned personnel a proper flow of promotion, a board shall compulsorily retire enough officers to make up the deficiency.

Hitherto the spirit of this law has been complied with by retiring officers professionally or physically disqualified, and it has been interpreted as applying only to lieutenants, ensign. That it should be necessary to thus force on the retired list any officer at all is deplored by the department, for at the present time the commissioned personnel is altogether inadequate for the demands of the ships in commission. The report of the "plucking" board must be rendered by June 30.

INDIGNANT PEOPLE AFTER ITALIAN BRUTE

Try to Lynch Man Attempting Attack on Little Girl at New Rochelle, N. Y.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 22.—That Angelo Salamano, an Italian, 24 years old, who attacked two little girls in the woods near the home of Rufus F. Zogbaum, the naval artist, was not lynched last evening was due to the interference of some of the residents. A mob had the Italian in hand as I were dragging him to the power house of the Union railroad, where they could obtain a rope, when Sergeant Kelly and Detective Fanelli arrived and, forcing their way into the crowd, got possession of the frightened man and took him to the station house. In the crowd was a number of women, who were shouting loudly to the men as the Italian was dragged down the street, "Lynch him!" "Hang him!"

The little girls who accuse the Italian are only 7 and 8 years old.

PATTROVICK TRIAL TODAY.

Croatian Accused of Complicity in Ferguson Murder to Answer Charge.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 22.—(Special.)—Mayor Pattrovick, the Croatian accused of the Ferguson murder, will be placed on trial here tomorrow afternoon. The case will be tried before Judge Taylor, who sat in the trial of Milovar Kovovick, who was convicted and sentenced to death.

The indications are that District Attorney Underwood will prosecute the case alone against Pattrovick, as John Marron, associated with the prosecution, is ill. It is thought the case will occupy several days in the trying. Pattrovick is well and healthy looking and cheerful. Kovovick, the condemned man, is morose and sullen and is rapidly losing flesh.

The automobile was rapidly driven away after the collision.

EX-PITTSBURGHER ELECTED BISHOP

Rev. Dr. Oldham Will Be a Methodist Episcopal Prelate in India.

LEADING MEN IN PULPITS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LOS ANGELES, CAL., May 22.—This was a great day for the people of this city and surrounding suburbs. Twelve Methodist Episcopal bishops occupied as many pulpits. Five of the new bishops preached and great audiences were attracted to their services. Bishop L. B. Wilson preached at Boyle Heights church this morning and Trinity church this evening. Bishop Joseph A. Berry preached at First church and Centennial. Bishop T. B. Neeley occupied the pulpit of Trinity this morning and Bishop W. F. McDowell at the Long Beach church this evening.

Just at the close of the session yesterday a ballot was taken, which will be announced tomorrow, electing three missionary bishops. They are Dr. I. B. Scott for Africa, Dr. W. F. Oldham, formerly pastor of the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal church of Pittsburgh, for India, and Dr. J. E. Robinson for Malay, Asia. Dr. Scott will be a colleague for Bishop Hartzell and Dr. Oldham will be a colleague for Bishop Thoburn. Dr. Scott was elected on the first African ballot, receiving a heavy majority of nearly all the votes cast. Dr. Oldham and Dr. Robinson were elected on the first southern Asia ballot.

It is now expected that a missionary bishop will be elected for Japan and Korea and also one for the Philippine Islands. This latter is dependent entirely upon the decision of the judiciary committee, if the Philippines is decided to be considered a "foreign country" in an ecclesiastical sense and a bishop is recommended, there is no question but Dr. Homer Stuntz will be the man.

A sensational scene was presented to the conference just before the election of the African bishop yesterday. It was without precedent in the history of Methodism and greatly stirred the delegates.

Mrs. Anna T. Strickland of Little Rock, Ark., colored lay delegate from the Little Rock conference, secured the floor and addressed the conference in the interest of the election of a colored bishop.

Her appeal had its effect and made a profound impression on the conference. The conference also adopted a stringent resolution offered by J. N. Gamble and Dr. Buckley.

It demanded that no delegates be permitted to leave the conference without presenting to the committee on credentials good and sufficient reasons therefore. The coming week will be a very important one. There will not only be the election of publishing agents, editors of the Advocate and secretaries of the various benevolent societies, but all the important reports relating to amusements, superannuated preachers and other questions thus far held in abeyance will have to be considered. Hence the necessity of holding the restless delegates until the end of the session.

Two subjects will doubtless cause a spirited debate during the next few days, the amusement question and the relations of capital and labor.

LONDON, May 22.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to Reuter's Telegram Company says that the report of a sortie by the Port Arthur garrison has not been confirmed. It appears, says the dispatch, to have originated in the receipt of Lieut. Gen. Stoessel's report of the fight at Kin-Chau, this, together with the fact that Gen. Stoessel commands at Port Arthur, giving rise to the rumor that the garrison had made a sortie.

Desperate Tactics of Russians Called Breach of the Neutrality Laws.

LONDON, May 23.—The correspondent of the Times, on board that paper's steamer Haimun, which is still excluded from the real theater of war, gives a review of the present position of affairs and says: "Realising that they were effectively isolated, the Port Arthur Russians made their desperation an excuse for sowing the whole gulf of Pe-Chi-Li with floating blockade mines.

"It is reported that they sent launches and junks to drop mines in the paths of the Japanese warships and transports. The mines drifted to the high seas and to Chinese waters, constituting the gravest danger to neutral shipping.

"Yesterday the Haimun passed two floating mines within six miles of Wei-Hai-Wei. Even as the act of a desperate garrison this must be in violation of the law of nations."

OREL IS RAISED.

Battleship Was Sent to Bottom of Neva by Opening of Water Valves.

CRONSTADT, May 23.—The battleship Orel which was brought here some days ago to receive her main battery and to be given the finishing touches before going into commission, suddenly sank at her anchorage on the night of May 20.

Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, commander-in-chief of the Baltic squadron, was instantly called from St. Petersburg and under his supervision the work of pumping out and raising the Orel was begun. The ship was raised this morning, and was found to be undamaged, save that her interior was filled with dirty salt water.

An examination showed that her Kingston valves had been opened, permitting the water to rush in. It is suggested that the carelessness of a workman might have been responsible for the opening of the valves, but an investigation into the affair is progressing.

SUIT FOR $50,000,000.

Woman Wants Royalties for Alleged Process Used by Standard Oil Company.

BOSTON, MASS., May 22.—(Special.)—One quarter of a cent on every gallon of kerosene oil manufactured by the Standard Oil Company since 1874 is what Mrs. Benjamin Greenbough claims is due her as executor of her husband's estate. She has entered suit against the great corporation and for the amount she hopes to wrest from it is estimated at $50,000,000. The suit is for royalties on Greenbough's process, alleged to have kerosene non-explosive. Mrs. Greenbough asserts that her husband transferred his knowledge to H. H. Rogers and Fred. his partner, at a stated figure for royalties, which were paid only for a short time.

Mr. Rogers has been served with papers and will be obliged to defend the suit. The real defendant is the Standard Oil Company. Mrs. Greenbough recently discovered the agreement among her late husband's old papers.

BOY'S DEATH DUE TO RUSTY NAIL

Wound Healed and Week Later Developed a Case of Lockjaw.

CANE FOR GRAVEMARK

A rusty nail, which penetrated his foot on Saturday a week ago and produced lockjaw, caused the death of Edgar Llewellyn, aged 8, at his parents' home, 419 Evaline street, East End, yesterday morning at 3:45 o'clock. The boy was playing with two companions at a new house near his home and stumbled on a pile of boards. A nail in one of them ran through a hole in the boy's shoe and cut into his foot.

The wound, however, healed and caused young Llewellyn no pain until Saturday, when his body began to get rigid. Dr. Thomas T. Kirk of 4908 Liberty avenue was called at once, but said he was unable to do anything for the boy.

A physician told Deputy Coroner J. H. Woodward yesterday that Paul Dufour, aged 2, who was found dead on the lawn in the rear of his father's house, at Sturgeon Saturday, had died from congestion of the lungs. The mother said the child had eaten a hearty dinner of meat and vegetables two hours before it was found dead.

J. D. Stewart of Carnegie found the body of a female infant, about one day old on a farm in Scott township yesterday. The body was taken to the morgue. The infant had been buried and its grave marked with a cane. Stewart noticed the cane and on investigation discovered the grave. The infant had been dressed and afterward wrapped in paper. Dr. Walter C. McCandless made a post-mortem examination of the body last night.

Joseph Gibbons of 416 Third street, Homestead, died at Mercy hospital at 1:45 o'clock yesterday morning. He was a laborer at the Carnegie steel works, fell 75 feet from a scaffold, and fractured his skull.

. Ruhlandt Says Bond Ordinance Will Not Pass Select Council.

OUTH SIDE MEMBERS ANGRY

"I think that the filtration ordinance will pass finally tomorrow, but I do not believe the hump ordinance will have such easy sailing," said Select Councilman J. W. Ruhlandt of the Twenty-sixth ward, yesterday. "Our fellows are all against the hump ordinance and I don't believe it will pass even on second reading. I suppose a motion will be made by Armstrong or some other South Side member for select council to go into a committee of the whole for the purpose of amending the filtration ordinance, but I do not believe a combined fight will be made against it.

"The South Side is opposed to the hump ordinance because we will have to help pay for the improvement. This feeling has been intensified by the refusal to make any provision for the South Side in the filtration bond issue."

The filtration bill ordinance will come up on third reading this afternoon and a majority is all that is required to pass it finally. The hump ordinance will come up on second reading and to pass it finally would require a three-fourths vote. With the opposition of the South Side members and members from the other wards against the hump bill it is not probable that the administration will attempt to put the bill beyond second reading.

The statement of Ruhlandt, however, makes it extremely doubtful that the bill will pass on second reading.

More Land for Filtration.

W. E. Lang of the Thirty-first ward joined with Joseph G. Armstrong at the last meeting of select council in the fight to amend the filtration ordinance. The Bigelow councilmen claim that Lang and other Citizens members will be with them today despite their opposition to the bill at the last meeting.

The ordinance authorizing the purchase of 77 additional acres of land for the city filtration plant above Aspinwall will also come up on third reading this afternoon. This bill passed was in a bunch of other measures, which was passed at the last meeting on second reading without debate. The increase of 77 acres will make a total filtration site of 168 acres.

Common council will meet tonight. The ordinances for the regrading of the streets and alleys of the hump district will come up on second reading. At the last meeting the Citizens by mistake defeated a motion to put the bill on second reading, but they intend tonight, if possible, to rectify this blunder.

The Schenley park race track ordinance and the ordinance for the artesian wells will be reported to common council tonight by the public works committee, and there will probably be a fight over the race track.

Select Councilman A. H. Leslie returned yesterday from Philadelphia, where he inspected the preliminary filters in company with two other members of select council and Controller Larkin. The other two councilmen were Dr. E. R. Walters and John Barry. Walters, Barry and Larkin went on to Atlantic City and will be home this morning. Leslie said that he was unable to understand why the other members of the committee did not go to Philadelphia.

Leslie Gives His Opinion.

Leslie said that he was in favor of the preliminary filters and he thought they would greatly reduce the cost of the Pittsburgh plant. His observations were somewhat different from those of W. H. Stevenson, who visited the Philadelphia plant previously. Leslie said that the preliminary filters had been in constant use since last October except for 10 days, when the engineers were making an experiment by allowing the raw water to run directly into the sand filters. Stevenson, when he returned from his trip to Philadelphia, said that the preliminary filters were in use only about one-fourth of the time, that they were required only when the water was muddy and turbid. Leslie also had a different opinion from Stevenson of the new system of preliminary filtration, with which John W. Hill is experimenting.

This new filter contains coarse gravel and slag, while no sponges are used in the Maignen filters. Leslie thinks that if Hill's new scheme proves successful Hill will have it patented. Stevenson has expressed the opinion that no patent would or could be secured on the new system.

WORK ON PLAYGROUND AT HERRON HILL BASIN

Supt. Burke of the Parks Will Spends $5,000 to Beautify the Space.

Under the direction of Superintendent Burke of the city parks, the old Bedford basin is to be changed from an eyesore to a playground. This morning a force of laborers will begin work on the basin, and in two months, it is said, something resembling a park will be the result. Contractor McQuade, who had the original contract for converting the plot into a suitable place for a park, has finished, and the city will take hold of the project. Superintendent Burke will be allowed $5,000 for the work, but said yesterday this will be not half enough. It was intended to fence in the basin, but the appropriation will not allow of this.

At the other parks many summer changes are being made. The shelter houses, all of which are new, have been opened, and Frank Lorenzi, who has a lunch concession, will begin the construction of a $3,500 pavilion on the site of the bandstand at Highland park this week. On Decoration day Lorenzi will open a lunch room in one of the shelter houses at Schenley.

Superintendent Burke said yesterday that more requests for picnics in the parks have been received this year than ever before in the history of the bureau. There are seven plots in Schenley park and five in Highland that are used for picnic parties exclusively. These have been taken for almost every day for the summer.

Yesterday was a great day at the zoo. Superintendent Tretow has opened all of the summer quarters for the animals. The attendance was larger than for any single day since last summer. During the week Tretow has added a zebu, or sacred cow, which was the result of an exchange of animals; an antelope, to replace the one which died a few months ago, and a monkey. C. K. Kelly of Glenwood has presented the zoo with a six-foot blacksnake, and S. W. Patterson of 625 South Negley avenue has given four small alligators.

While there were few new flowers at the Phipps conservatory yesterday, the crowds were immense. The art gallery at the Carnegie Institute and the organ recital by Edwin H. Lemare were well patronized.

Suspects Were Heavily Fined.

John Hart, suspected of trying to rob Mike Lynch in Cherry alley, was fined $25 and costs yesterday. John Mullen also paid the same fine for prowling about 1818 Fifth avenue. Frank Cooper, alleged to have stolen a skirt and watch at 51 Congress street, was fined $50 and costs, and Thomas Martin $25 and costs for threatening to cut a woman in Tunnel street.

Heavy Old Cannon to Decorate a Cemetery

Stiff Pull Required to Get Heavy Guns Uphill.

Two Rodman guns used during the civil war have been secured from the United States government to flank the sides of the soldiers' monument in the beautiful new cemetery, Woodlawn, above Wilkinsburg. The ordnance reached Wilkinsburg on Saturday and the work of getting them up the hill between the town and the cemetery was accomplished. The cemetery is on a commanding piece of ground from which a beautiful panorama can be seen.

Special care has been taken in laying it out and expert landscape gardeners did the work. The soldiers' monument was the first erected in the burying ground. The guns will be put in position before Decoration Day, when the monument is to be dedicated. There is to be a great parade with military bodies, veteran associations and school children taking part.

Each of these Rodman guns weighs 15,000 pounds and are not easy to handle.

POLICE SEEKING EXPERT GOLFER

Pittsburghers Claim He Swindled Them and Forged Their Names to Checks.

HE SECURED OVER $1,000

The city detectives are looking for Percy Clare Eliot Lockhart, a golf expert, who is charged with swindling a number of business men of Pittsburgh and New York by forgery. Lockhart said he was from Carnwath, Lanarkshire, Scotland. He disappeared from this city last week. Among those whom it is alleged he victimized were James H. Lockhart, Jr., well known in business and golf circles of 608 North Highland avenue and G. A. R. Ormiston, manager of W. M. Dick & Co., of First avenue and Ross street.

Lockhart came to this city the first of this month, went to George Gelder, a pawnbroker at 514 Wylie avenue, and pledged his bag of golf sticks and a leather traveling bag. Lockhart told Gelder he was a professional golf player and wanted to get a position as a coach. Gelder referred him to William Hodgett, who is connected with W. M. Dick & Co. as a solicitor. Hodgett met Lockhart and introduced him to Mr. Ormiston as a professional golf coach. The latter being an amateur player immediately became interested.

Ormiston advanced Lockhart money to redeem his golf sticks and other belongings. Lockhart told Ormiston he was a mechanical draughtsman and said he would accept a position with some firm in that capacity until he could secure work as a coach. Ormiston promised he would assist Lockhart in every way he could and gave him a letter of introduction to James H. Lockhart, Jr. The supposed golf expert took the letter to Mr. James H. Lockhart, Jr., who also promised assistance.

Mr. Lockhart was of the opinion he could secure the golf player work as a draughtsman with the Westinghouse Company. The golf player went to the Westinghouse Company with a letter of introduction and returned to Mr. Lockhart telling him the Westinghouse Company would not employ him because he was not an American citizen. Lockhart had expressed a desire to go to New York until the golf season opened here. Mr. Ormiston gave Lockhart money to go. From previous letters of introduction Lockhart had the signatures of Mr. Ormiston, James H. Lockhart, Jr., and Mr. Hodgett.

Mr. Hodgett told the golf expert he had a friend in New York, William Bartel, a bird fancier who has stores in all the large cities in the United States. Before leaving the golfer had a type written letter of introduction made to Mr. Bartel, introducing the bearer as Mr. Ormiston, to which he forged Hodgett's name.

The golf player took this letter to Mr. Bartel in New York, and, representing himself to be Mr. Ormiston, had two checks cashed by Mr. Bartel. The checks were on the Diamond National bank, one for $50 and the other for $5. In addition to this he represented himself as James H. Lockhart, Jr., to the Cunard Steamship Company and had a check cashed for $270.

The checks came to this city for collection. The clerks at the bank detected Mr. Ormiston's name had been forged, sent for him, and he pronounced the checks forgeries.

Mr. Bartel sent a description of the golf player and the forged letter of introduction which led Mr. Bartel to believe he had favored Mr. Ormiston.

Paid for Wife Beating.

Louis Gessner, arrested late Saturday night by Officer John Cavanaugh for abusing his wife, was fined $25 and costs yesterday by Magistrate James F. Kane.

A clear account of these sales was given Saturday, along with a variety of other special sales, and this morning we only take up the Furniture Sale again. It is a sale that should have such weight with the housewife who desires to produce rich furniture, and who hopes to come into that possession by the economical road, that we are inclined to think a republication of the price list will be appreciated.

People who cannot be present can order satisfactorily by telephone, and we will have pleasure in attending to all such orders promptly.

This furniture is the finest manufactured, and it will be noticed that most of it is what may be called period furniture, that is to say, reproductions of famous pieces and suites used back in other centuries.

Monday, May 23, 1904.

Early fruit is arriving in the Pittsburgh market with the promise that an abundance is to come. The orchards of California and the south are in excellent condition, with their fruits ripening, and the orchards farther north have borne a wealth of blossoms and are setting fruit plentifully. Unless overtaken by some extraordinary calamity a bumper fruit crop is in prospect that will go far to compensate for the bad condition of winter wheat. This is, indeed, a great country, in which the pessimist finds difficulty in obtaining a lasting foothold. Prosperity is checked at times, but never destroyed.

There is a fresh ferment in Europe over the probability of serious trouble in the Balkan peninsula. It is the belief of many statesmen throughout Europe that the Russian pre-occupation in the far east will lead to an outbreak of war between the Balkan states and Turkey that may tax the resources of the other powers to bring to a satisfactory end. A friction between Turkey and the Balkan states, confined to them, might not matter so much, but each power foresees the possibility of disagreement with the neighbor upon the manner in which such an event should be handled. There are so many jealousies and so many old feuds among the nations of Europe that the kindling of a bonfire anywhere startles them all with the apprehension that it may spread and become a conflagration.

As evidence that the Wabash extension to this city is nearing completion, a party of Pittsburghers made a trip over the line yesterday, ending only a short distance from the Ohio river, where the huge bridge is being built to connect with the old Wheeling & Lake Erie line. Barring accidents, President Ramsey may have his formal opening on June 19 of one of the most expensive pieces of railroad ever constructed. It is entering the greatest freight producing district in the world and comes in full-fledged, by way of contrast to the embryotic condition of the earlier transportation lines, which have gradually grown to their present magnificent proportions. Single track roads are no longer fashionable about Pittsburgh and the Wabash wisely came in double, with some provision for further increase.

Late news casts doubt upon the report that Gen. Stoessel made a successful sortie out of Port Arthur against the Japanese holding the railroad to the north. It appears probable the impression of a successful action in that direction grew out of the fact that Gen. Stoessel reported by wireless telegraph the battle near Kinchau bay. This war is the first in which wireless telegraphy has played a part. It is easy to conceive its advantages to besieged positions like Port Arthur, and that it enables commanders at the front to communicate more quickly with headquarters. But in the matter of news for publication the wireless has not proven wholly satisfactory. It is almost as prone to errors as the old-fashioned telephone operating over an uncertain single wire through tall timber.

At least a temporary rupture has occurred in the diplomatic relations between France and the vatican. Minister Nisard has been ordered to leave Rome, for the present, and much interest is taken in the possibility of the breach becoming permanent. The course of the French republic in dealing with the religious orders during late years has been obnoxious to the church at Rome and France was disappointed in the election of Pius instead of Cardinal Rampolla. Thus relations have been severely strained for more than a year and the climax came when the vatican sent to France a note of protest against the visit of President Loubet to the quirinal differing from the notes sent to other powers. A permanent breach will mean the fall of the concordat. But for this, it is believed, diplomatic relations might have been severed sooner. It is an interesting situation and if the break is not soon repaired there will be livelier interest in the probable successor to France in the duty of protecting the interests of the church in foreign lands.

All Paris seemed excited when the 178 barrels of gold arrived as part payment for the Panama canal. The police feared it would be necessary to call out the reserves, but finally the $9,000,000 was landed safely in the vaults of the Credit Lyonnais. Then the Parisians returned to their homes to speculate about the country that can ship out tons of the monetary standard without disturbing the market. It is a wonderful advertisement of the resources of the country, this shipment of gold to pay a debt, and all the world would be astonished were it not for the fact that these little surprises are expected from the Yankee nation. Nevertheless, the whole proceedings are calculated to call renewed attention to the country's resources, and it is not surprising that in the fifteenth century the people of Spain expected to find gold lining the entire western hemisphere. There is plenty of gold here, but it is in manufacturing and agriculture as well as in mining.

Mr. McClintock's Points.

We take pleasure in publishing the communication from Mr. Oliver McClintock which will be found elsewhere upon this page, not only because of his well known interest in the public welfare, but also because it presents in a convenient shape for criticism the course of reasoning by which the chamber of commerce committee arrived at conclusions adverse to the proposed water loan of $5,000,000. Although the letter disputes the objections we made to the chamber of commerce committee's report, we think we can show by its own statements that the report will not bear analysis.

In the first place we think we can safely call Mr. McClintock himself or any other experienced business man as witness to the fact that the only safe way of estimating the expense of any work is by direct calculation of every ingredient of cost. Nothing is more unsafe than computations based upon deductions from the cost of other work assumed to be similar. The conclusions of the committee were reached by a process of deduction and hence any error in the premises vitiates the result. Examination discloses a number of such errors, which we shall deal with in their order.

1. Mr. McClintock quotes from the report of the filtration commission of 1896, an estimate of $2,486,360, for a filtration plant of 75,000,000 gallons daily capacity. This he compares with a proposed expenditure of $7,500,000 for a plant of 100,000,000 gallons daily; and, of course, the comparison shows a trebling of the cost for a capacity only one-third greater. But if Mr. McClintock will reexamine the facts he will see that the comparison is not fairly made. The original estimate was for a plant with a maximum capacity of 75,000,000 gallons and an average capacity of 50,000,000. The present estimates are for a plant with a maximum capacity of 135,000,000 gallons daily and an average capacity of 100,000,000 gallons. The original estimate provided for 25 filters of a capacity of 3,000,000 gallons each daily. The present estimates provide for 45 such filters. In actual operation some of the filter beds are always out of service, undergoing scraping and renewal, and it is plain that a given number so withdrawn will represent a smaller percentage of a large plant than of a smaller plant, so that the increase from 25 to 45 filters will certainly double the average capacity. Thus the new estimates instead of increasing the supply only one-third, as Mr. McClintock assumes, really doubles it, so that if the original cost was $2,486,360, a cost of $4,972,720 for the enlarged plant would not be unreasonable.

2. The original estimates were made at a time when labor and other elements of cost were lower than now. Everybody knows that all prices have advanced since the period between 1896 and 1899, when the original commission did its work. When the contracts came to be awarded, the bids showed that the cost would be at least 25 per cent more than the original estimates. The letting of those contracts was prohibited by Judge Buffington's decision, but there has been no decline of cost since. Surely the judgment of such men as Mr. Hill, Mr. Hering and Col. Miller upon this point is entitled to respect and they reported that the estimate as to increased cost of construction was well founded. Adding this 25 per cent to double the original estimate for double the capacity and we have $6,215,900 as a reasonable expense for a filtration plant of 100,000,000 gallons average daily capacity.

3. The present estimates include items of expense not included in the, original estimates. These are two additional pumps at a cost of $225,000 and a main to the South Side at a cost of $570,000. These belong to distribution rather than to the filtration plant and are betterments of the service. Adding these items to the estimates and we have reached the sum of $7,010,900.

But there is still another item not yet included—namely, the cost of metering the service. This is not included in the estimates quoted by Mr. McClintock, but it will be seen upon page 78 that the cost is estimated at $600,000. The present estimates contain an item of $408,000 on this account, which is calculated to be sufficient to meter 40 per cent of the service, which is as much as can be accomplished while the plant is being installed. Adding this item we have $7,418,900 as being what the expense of the proposed plant and betterments should be, on the basis of the original estimates, allowing 25 per cent for increase in the cost of doing the work. Now as a matter of fact the total amount called for by the present estimates is $7,152,000. The estimates as revised by the expert commission amount to $7,416,000, but the commission suggested that the number of filters might be reduced to 40, thus reducing the total to $6,751,000.

4. In his argument based upon per capita consumption, Mr. McClintock again falls into error. He computes the consumption in 1900 at 156 gallons per capita and contrasts this with the proposal to furnish a supply which would amount to 250 gallons per day per capita for a community of 400,000, whereas the population in 1903 was only 350,000. Mr. McClintock forgot that the present supply is only for 23 wards, while the proposed supply is for the entire city. The consumption in 1900 was really 233 per capita and in 1903 it was 253 per capita. We are pumping now 72,000,000 gallons a day for a population estimated at 257,000, or 280 gallons a day. We agree with Mr. McClintock that this is inordinate, but there are over 35,000 services in the present area of supply, and about 12,000 on the South Side. If metering should begin today it will be years before it overtakes the per capita consumption, which advances at a frightful rate. About 1,500 new services are added every year and it will require a considerable staff to keep up with this increase alone. We see nothing extravagant about provision for a daily supply of 100,000,000 gallons for the whole city in 1906. On the contrary it will be a great piece of luck if that quantity is enough, and if the work continues to be held up and delayed, it certainly will not be.

5. The comparisons made as to the cost per million gallons in various cities are untrustworthy, as like things are not compared with like. In the other cities cited, the cost of the filtration plant alone is taken; the Pittsburgh cost is that of filtration, plus pumping and distribution. Washington, for instance, puts in a filtration plant, fed by gravity flow from its present system of reservoirs. When Col. Miller of the Washington water works was here he made a close comparison of cost and found that including everything the cost of the Washington plant was $69,300 an acre, as compared with a cost of $71,000 at Pittsburgh. It seems to us that this is not an excessive variation in view of differences in local conditions.

We have now dealt with all the points in Mr. McClintock's letter save that relating to preliminary filtration, which we reserve for treatment in a succeeding article.

Jerome and the Gamblers.

District Attorney Jerome's crusade against gambling in Greater New York is more far-reaching, probably, than he intended. Not only has he put the New York gamblers on the jump, but there is a fair prospect that a number of the "snide" race tracks will quit business because the Western Union Telegraph Company will no longer allow the "news" of their "events" to be sent over its wires. These race courses are an unmitigated evil, for they have no connection, as other tracks have, with legitimate sport and the encouragement of fine horse breeding.

It is not, however, in the closing of New York gambling houses, or even a few counterfeit race tracks, that the highest value of Mr. Jerome's determination is seen. Its highest value is the demonstration of the power of one earnest man to suppress one evil. Mr. Jerome's success is proof of the falsity of the pessimistic doctrine that it is idle for any one man to protest against a common evil. Mr. Folk of St. Louis has given an example of how one man can fight the "system" and halt graft, which is the greatest growing evil of our time. It will be admitted at the outset that these are not "average men," but men of more than ordinary ability and firmness of purpose. None the less, what they have done should be an inspiration to other men to abandon their indifference and set their faces toward the right.

The government of this country is by the people and for the people in proportion to their effort to make it so. Abuses have crept in and abuses will creep in. But that fact affords no excuse for the man who pleads inability to mend the system as his excuse for not trying to stem the tide. There is as much need for patriotism in the midst of profound peace as ever there was in time of war. That citizen who fights intelligently for good government and for upholding the integrity of the law is enlisted in as noble a cause as the preservation of his country against physical assault. Attorney Jerome has proven that good can be done and he finds that his influence reaches farther than he expected. He is getting assistance, too, where he had not looked for it.

Reports from all the conventions naming delegates to the Chicago convention would indicate that Mr. Roosevelt has a strong following and is likely to be nominated early in the balloting.

Talked of in Gotham

By GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 22.—Conservative figures will put the attendance at Coney Island today at 150,000 visitors. The season is opening, and although the temperature is not high, even for May, the delights of a seashore excursion are such as to attract irresistibly the vast army of factory-imprisoned men, women and children in Greater New York on the one regular holiday of their week. It matters little what the set amusements of Coney may be. As a matter of fact, they are of a healthier and more appealing quality than ever before. But whether you are fascinated by "Dreamland," or delighted by "Luna Park," makes little difference, so long as the sun shines and the salt breeze swirling across the water from distant Sandy Hook tingles your cheeks and invigorates your lungs. It is true that many boys and young men who go to Coney in such immense throngs every Sunday think they are there only to visit the "shows" and partake of the eatables and drinkables shouted at them from every side, but you will see that they all find their way to the sandy beach some time in the afternoon. It is impossible for professional amusement caterers to offer anything more satisfying than the shore kissed by the incoming rollers, spend as much money as they will. There will come hot days soon. Coney Island today was inclined to be bleak where the wind had full sweep, but never was the dear old place more attractive. Those who went were prepared for any kind of weather, because the present spring has taught them that a heavy shower may descend at any moment, no matter how bright may be the sunshine when one leaves Manhattan. But weather did not count. It was a May Sunday, and that was enough. Steamboats will not run until the end of the month, but the trolley cars and elevated railways are giving their usual service, and no doubt everyone will get home sometime, somehow. Anyone who has ever visited Coney Island on a Sunday evening knows what this means.

Aubrey Saved the Day.

Self-possession is an invaluable gift to an actor. Aubrey Boucicault has it. A few nights ago, in the second act of "Tit for Tat," Elizabeth Tyree was suddenly taken ill, and Mr. Boucicault led her from the stage. There was an awkward wait, and then Mr. Boucicault, lounging easily on a sofa, sang a French chansonnette as if for his own amusement, but doing it well enough to provoke a tumultuous encore. He lighted a cigar and smiled—all of this taking time, it will be noted, giving Miss Tyree, in her dressing room leisure to recover—then he sang another verse. He had only time to bow acknowledgments of the applause, when in walked Miss Tyree, well enough to continue, and the scene went on as if there had never been a break. Surely this was more artistic and pleasanter for the audience than the usual clumsy proceeding of lowering the curtain under similar circumstances.

Large Congregations Today.

Perhaps the controversy which has been in progress here for the last few weeks, on "Why don't men go to church?" is responsible for the fact that the churches seemed to be more than ordinarily crowded this morning. It is a common remark this evening that clergymen seldom face larger congregations than they had this morning. It is suggested, as one reason, that the time for summer vacations is drawing near, and if you want to hear your favorite preacher you must go now. He will be on his way to Europe, to the mountains or elsewhere for a rest before the end of next month.

The Young Preacher's Chance.

Although the regular pastor of a fashionable New York church is pretty sure to be missed throughout the hot summer months, probably to the annoyance of old-fashioned members of his flock, who are used to certain pulpit oratory, and get the fidgets when listening to any other, the summer vacation of eminent divines is the chance of the year for younger ministers. Then it is that they are called on to fill pulpits belonging to some of the great guns of theology, who thunder forth their powerful discourses all winter. Many a now famous clergyman found his first opportunity in filling a charge temporarily in the summer vacation season. In many instances the world-renowned clergyman—like Dr. Hillis, Dr. Parkhurst or Dr. Huntington—has an assistant, who steps into his place, not only in the heated term, but also many times in the regular pastoral season, from late September to May. The congregation knows him as well as it does his chief. The new man takes the assistant's place in the summer, and while this may not be as profitable to the student or newly-ordained clergyman as if he were the only one, it enables him to get a New York hearing, and that is the main thing, after all.

Gates on the Stand.

In the Waldorf-Astoria lobby tonight, at the Astoria end, there was a group of prominent men discussing the possibilities of the inquiry which is scheduled to take place on Monday morning with the object of giving District Attorney Jerome information about certain alleged gambling places in this city. The reason of more than ordinary interest at the Waldorf in this matter is that John W. Gates, who lives there, has received one of the subpenas, while John A. Drake and Mortimer Schiff have also been summoned. Mr. Jerome is at his country home, Lakeville, and has not said what he will ask the witnesses. There will be a centering of attention on the inquiry tomorrow morning, and for an obvious reason. It will mark another step on the part of the district attorney toward arriving at a conclusion as to the legal value of the measure which most people know as the "Jerome bill."

Wall Street Machine Stuck.

One pithy description of conditions in Wall street just now is that "the market seems to have got on a dead center." Financial sages hazard the opinion that the old machine will soon begin to move, however. There are many signs pointing toward renewed activity on change before June is out, although they are apparently based on mere opinion more than anything else. One thing is sure— that Wall street has never had a longer and deeper period of stagnation than has existed since J. Pierpont Morgan sailed for Europe some weeks ago, and for a considerable time before, for that matter.

Duss Campaign Opened.

John S. Duss opened his summer season of concerts at Madison Square garden tonight. The immense place was well filled, and the Grand Canal, the "Bridge of Sighs," the gondolas and the glass sounding-board were all much admired. It was Wagner night. Mme. Nordica was the soloist. She was in good voice, and sang as if she enjoyed it. The Duss orchestra is good, as usual. New Yorkers have become used to the talented Pittsburgher, and they know that his programs are always well worth serious attention.

Mosquito Bites Good for Sore Throat.

Jerseyites are jealous of the Bronx. No mosquitoes to speak of have been seen in New Jersey this year, but reports from the upper part of Manhattan Island are that there are plenty of the buzzers already dashing about. In the Bronx it is said that clouds of them are to be seen and heard every evening. Experts predict that the mosquito pest will not be anything like as bad in Jersey this summer as it was last.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

When coal and gas gives out what will we do for heat?

This question is worrying some folks already, although it has been given out by geologists and scientists that there is coal enough in sight to last for several thousands of years.

These statements do not count for much against the figures, or even rough statements, of some wild-eyed chap who boldly alleges that at the rate coal is being mined now it will only be a few years until there will hardly be a scuttleful left.

He does not say just how many years, nor does he mention any approximate number. Nor does he give us any hint as to what he means by a few years, whether a few hundred or a few thousand.

And yet there are those who actually seem to worry over the prospect of the supply of coal giving out.

But why need you, or anyone, worry over this when there is enough to keep you warm as long as you live, although you may edge over the century line, or even break the Methuselan record?

You are here to look out for yourself and your own. The future will take care of itself, just as it always has, and people will get along quite as well thousands of years hence as they did thousands of years ago.

* * * *

Supposing the coal and gas supply should run short, don't you believe, and don't you know, the race of man would go on until it had finished its course?

All the heat energy in the world is not contained in coal and gas, and were these used up we would soon find an ample supply somewhere else.

What's the matter with the heat stored deep down in the earth?

We are taught that the center of our globe is a molten mass, and hotter than anything can be made on the surface on account of the inability to exert a pressure on matter above ground equal to that on matter at or near the center of the earth.

Think of the pressure that would be exerted by a column of water 4,000 miles high. A column one mile high would be heavy enough to burst or break almost anything ever made by man.

Heat is the result of pressure. At least, we are taught that the great heat of the sun is due to pressure exerted in various ways.

Why not store up sun-heat something after the fashion of storing electric energy? We store up cold with which to counteract the effects of heat. Why not reverse the order?

Scientists tell us that the heat in coal and wood was taken from the sun. If that is true, there does not seem to be any good reason why the same thing may not be done again in some other way.

* * * *

But facts are always more satisfactory than theories, because they are reliable.

Away out west, in Boise City, Idaho, and not far from the home of the blizzard, where coal has rarely been quoted below $20 a ton, with wood on the same basis, they have opened up hot water mines.

Their scientists told them that from data gathered in deep mines they figured that at a depth of 2,500 feet the temperature would be about that of boiling water.

Some enterprising chaps, taking this for their cue, drilled a hole to about that depth, and sure enough the water came up boiling hot. To pipe this boiling water and distribute it the same as natural gas or steam was an easy matter.

As the supply of hot water appears to be inexhaustible, the people of Boise City are not worrying about the price of coal, and are snapping their fingers at cold weather.

There is the town of Hot Springs, Ark., that does not even have to bore for hot water, and it is good and hot. Whether or not it is in general use for heating purposes does not appear on the bills, but the heat is there just the same, and there is wood in great abundance, too, so that the people can take their choice.

* * * *

Will some of our scientists or physiographers tell us how deep we would have to go in this section to strike the boiling point? They ought to know, for there are holes of great depth everywhere in the oil and gas belts.

A well was bored in Marshall county, W. Va., to the depth of something over one mile, and it is said that several others were pushed to the mile limit, but these were bored for oil and not for scientific purposes.

The natural, or normal, increase in temperature, going towards the center of the earth, is given as one degree to each 60 feet.

This rule does not apply to Boise City, nor to any place on the geyser belt, a belt coincident with the volcanic belt, if not really belonging to it. There are many places along this belt where water comes to the surface boiling hot.

But we can find boiling water anywhere if we only go down far enough—less than two miles. And long before the coal and gas supply has been exhausted we will be pumping heat from the bowels of the earth. You may not see the time when this is done, but you can rest assured there is warmth enough in mother earth to keep her children from being frozen out.

* * * *

Mr. Quiet Observer: I was much interested in an article in a recent issue of the Gazette, concerning unanswered prayers.

A great misunderstanding prevails concerning our privilege in prayer, and it is because of this misunderstanding concerning what we ask for and who may ask, and not of any unfaithfulness on our Lord's part, that so many prayers go unanswered.

The promise to answer prayer is a conditional promise: "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you ye may ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." (St. John xv:7.)

It is only believers who abide in Christ and in whom Christ's words abide who are privileged to ask whatsoever they will. Those in whom the word of God "dwells richly" will be so in harmony with the Master's will that they will pray as did our Saviour, "Not My will, but Thine be done."

Your inquirer says he found it no use to pray for the life of his child or for aid. Death is the penalty for sin. "Dying thou shalt die." "As in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive." If all the prayers were answered that are offered for dying friends, how, then, could the death penalty go into effect?

If he is one of the above mentioned class, God saw that the aid he prayed for would not be to his spiritual benefit, and so withheld the things desired. Christ did not promise His followers worldly peace and prosperity: "In the world ye shall have tribulation, but in Me ye shall have peace."

He says he sees no one fed and clothed except they work and pay. God nowhere promised that they shall. "Six days shalt thou labor." "This we commanded you, if any would not work neither should he eat." (2 Thess. iii:10.) True, the promise is, "Thy bread and water shall be sure," but that does not say we shall be fed by the ravens. The Lord never made a promise that He need wish to break, and those who put their trust in Him will never be confounded. "Ye ask and receive not, because you ask amiss that ye may consume it on your lusts." "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shal be added unto you."

A SONG OF THE CLOCK.

It's useless to be sighing
For the chances you have lost;
It's useless to be crying
O'er the past and what it cost.
O'er the hope that's dead and vanished
Let us not in mourning stand—
For yesterday is far away—
Tomorrow's close at hand.

Now's the time to make it pleasant
Spite of memories o'ercast;
For a minute of the present
Is worth ages of the past.
And the clock keeps up its rhythm
Marking time for all the land,
And yesterday is far away;
Tomorrow's close at hand.

The Water Question

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Mr. Oliver McClintock Defends the Chamber of Commerce Report.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

Sir—Knowing your sympathetic attitude towards any honest and high-minded effort to elucidate complicated municipal problems for the public welfare, I had expected from you a more appreciative estimate of the methods employed and the conclusions reached by the committee of the chamber of commerce upon the proposed bond issue for water filtration.

While the committee had the advice of competent experts and the aid of published reports, including that published in 1899 by the city's filtration commission, which was appointed in 1896, their report was simply their combined business judgment on the three questions considered, viz., the reasonable cost of filtration for the entire city, a separate supply for the South Side and the advisability of preliminary filtration, the latter not having been considered at all by the commission of 1896. The principle of preliminary filtration is not abstruse or technically difficult of comprehension by the lay mind. It is simply the obviating by a cheaper process of the necessity for constructing a sand filtration plant on a scale adequate to eliminate the extreme turbidity of water, which exists only during about two months in the year. It is the application to water filtration of the principle of shortening a process and thus reducing the cost which is usually applied in manufacturing and the arts.

In the matter of Director Bigelow's estimate of $72,500 per million gallons you say editorially:

"These estimates are based primarily upon those of the filtration commission of 1896, enlarged to meet increased consumption and advanced cost of construction entailed by delay in carrying out the original plans. Such estimates are entitled to credence, and it is not competent testimony in contradiction to rake together a bunch of figures obtained from work under different conditions at distant points."

That we may better judge of its bearing upon this question, I quote below the estimate of the filtration commission of 1896 for a filtration plant of 75,000,000 gallons daily capacity, which will be found on page 65 of their report:

Intake, pumping machinery and pump house	$ 315,000
Sedimentation basin	200,000
Filters	751,000
Pure water reservoir	133,000
Force main and conduits	78,600
Tunnel under river	60,000
Engineering and contingencies, 10 per cent	158,760
Total cost of construction	$1,691,360
Land, with reserve area to double plant	420,000
	$2,111,360
Add for vaulting of masonry for filter covers	375,000
Total estimated cost	$2,486,360

On page 64 they state that the above estimate was for a capacity 50 per cent greater than the average daily consumption of 50,000,000 gallons, and that "sufficient land for filter beds was included to allow the plant to be doubled and the estimates for some of the structures not capable of being readily enlarged, were made sufficient for a largely increased consumption.

This carefully prepared and liberal estimate by experts, based on local conditions, and approved by the city's official commission in 1896, gives $2,486,360, or $33,152 per million of gallons, as the cost of a filtration plant of 75,000,000 gallons of gallons daily capacity. It further sustains the reasonable basis of estimate taken by the committee of the chamber of commerce, viz., that of the Belmont plant when completed in Philadelphia at $36,734, the highest cost known; the one at Albany at $33,060, and that at Washington, D. C., at $32,000 per 1,000,000 gallons.

The extravagance of the present filtration plans, as published, may also be seen from another point of view, viz., that of daily supply per capita. The population in 1900 was 321,000, with an average consumption (as stated by the commission report) of 50,000,000 of gallons of water per day, or a 156 gallons per capita, allowing an unlimited and unrestrained use of water. The population in 1903 was estimated by the census bureau at 350,000. We are now confronted with the manifestly extravagant proposition of a proposed daily supply of 100,000,000 gallons, which would give 250 gallons per day per capita to a population of 400,000.

In view of these considerations I believe that the contention of the chamber of commerce is well sustained, that "the proposition to borrow $5,000,000 in addition to the $2,500,000 previously raised for this purpose, unnecessary and extravagant," and that $7,500,000 appears to be more than double the amount required to install a plant with a capacity for more than 100,000,000 gallons per day.

How Was Jefferson on This?

Some of Judge Parker's friends have dug up an utterance of his, dated December, 1888, on the evils of bribery, and are publishing it broadcast. Is not that a dangerous abandonment of the theory that no man's opinions can be truly sane and Democratic unless they bear the imprint of Jefferson and date from some time prior to 1802?—New York Tribune.

Raisuli Communicates With Moroccan Authorities—Latter Will Grant Demands.

U. S. SHIP TO ARRIVE THIS WEEK

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.

Negotiations for the ransom of Ion Perdicaris, an American citizen, and his stepson, Cromwell Varley, an Englishman, who were kidnaped from Tangier, Morocco, have been opened by the bandit chieftain, Raisuli. Mr. Gummere, American consul at Tangier, in a cablegram received at the state department this afternoon, reports that Raisuli has communicated with the authorities in Tangier, and that a message has been received from the captives stating that they were well treated. Mr. Gummere does not say what, if any, figure of ransom Raisuli demands, but the bandit intimated that he expected an offer to be made quickly for the release of the captives.

Mr. Loomis, the acting secretary of state, immediately after receiving Mr. Gummere's report today, sent instructions that he should promptly report whatever terms Raisuli suggested and that he should miss no opportunity to bring about the release of the captives. Mr. Gummere reports that the Moroccan authorities are acting vigorously and apparently in good faith. He has great faith in the moral effect of the presence of an American squadron at Tangier.

It will be nearly the end of the week before an United States man-of-war swings at anchor in that harbor. Rear Admiral Chadwick will not reach the Canaries with the South Atlantic squadron much before Tuesday, and then he will send one ship ahead to Tangier in compliance with orders already sent him and will follow with the others. Rear Admiral Jewell, commanding the European squadron, may or may not receive orders when he arrives at the Azores to proceed to Tangier.

TANGIER, MOROCCO, May 22.—The shereef of Wazan left this morning to meet Raisuli, the bandit chief, who is said to be at Benlaros. Mohammed el Torres, representative of the sultan of Morocco at Tangier, has empowered the shereef to say that the government will grant all of the demands of Raisuli if the captives, Ion Perdicaris, the American, and Cromwell Varley, the Englishman, are handed over immediately. The soldiers already have been withdrawn from the district where the bandits are located.

PRESIDENT WILL MAKE NO CAMPAIGN SPEECHES

Hitchcock Says Chief Executive Will Not Visit Fair Until After Election.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock, who is visiting his home here, says that President Roosevelt will not come to the world's fair until after the November election, and probably not even then.

"If he is coming it is not known in Washington," declared Mr. Hitchcock. "He certainly will not come in the summer. On the contrary, he has said that he will remain in Washington except in July, when he may go to Oyster Bay for a few days. The Memorial day speech of the president at Gettysburg will be the only address he will make until after election.

"During the campaign he has decided to make no speeches, no tours and no public appearances. This precludes any visit to the world's fair until November, and then any visit he may make will necessarily be hasty. He may come at that time, of course, but there is no assurance of it. Mrs. Roosevelt will not come unless the president does. Miss Roosevelt will arrive here May 25. I do not know about the boys."

EXPERT FINDS FISH SUBJECT TO MALARIA

Disease Attacks Trout in the Hatchery at Cold Springs Harbor, L. I.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Trout are subject to malaria, according to a report just received here of an investigation into the cause of an epidemic among the fish of that genus, at the government fish hatchery at Cold Springs Harbor, L. I. M. C. March of the United States fish commission was sent to investigate it. Mr. March is known as the government fish doctor, and is said to be the best authority in the country on troubles of fishes.

The disease that has attacked the trout in the Long Island hatchery is proving very fatal, and already a great many of them have died. It is feared that it will eventually destroy the entire stock. All the trouble is caused by a parasite which corresponds to that which produces malaria in man. This protosen was first found on Long Island fishes by Dr. Calkins of the Columbia University. Some years ago an epidemic of the same kind occurred among certain Long Island fishes and Dr. Calkins, on investigating the source of trouble, discovered the parasite that has again broken loose among the Cold Spring Harbor trout.

JAPANESE BONDS HIGHER: THE RUSSIAN ARE LOWER

Illustrates the View Financiers Hold of the War in the Orient.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 22.—The manner in which financiers view the Russo-Japanese war is shown by the fluctuations in the price of the bonds of the two nations. Japanese bonds are now quoted higher than before the beginning of the war, while the price of Russian securities is eight points lower than they were on February 6.

Whether a further setback will send them below their low figure remains to be seen. It was thought some time ago that in case of a serious reverse on land these Russian bonds would severely test the ability of the French market to sustain their price. When the reverse came the decline was trifling, being only 1¾ per cent, while the Japanese issues advanced 2¾ points on the news.

The future movements of these issues of both countries depends upon the outcome of the various battles that are at present impending. A serious Japanese reverse might cause a big decline in the securities of that country and a corresponding increase in the value of the Russian issues.

Penrose and Dalzell Say They Did Not Discuss Matter While Cruising.

BOTH TO SEE THE PRESIDENT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.

Senator Penrose, Representative John Dalzell and other senators and representatives of the party that went to Cuba, reached Washington on the Dolphin this evening. All of the members of the party stated that they had had a pleasant trip and that they had been impressed with the progress of the Cubans in self-government and by the commercial prosperity of the island. They did not visit the Isle of Pines, as they intended, but traveled extensively through Cuba. One of the points they inspected was Guantanamo, where the United States government has acquired a site for a naval station. Senator Penrose and Mr. Dalzell inquired eagerly for political news upon their arrival and Mr. Penrose, who has been mentioned for chairman of the Republican national committee, was interested especially in the report that Secretary Cortelyou was favored by President Roosevelt for that place. When told that the chances largely were in favor of Mr. Cortelyou's selection, the senator declared that he would make a good chairman and that the interests of the president would be entirely safe in his hands.

Both Senator Penrose and Mr. Dalzell stated positively that they had not once mentioned since they left Washington the appointment of Charles F. McKenna of Pittsburgh as judge of Porto Rico, and each added that he did not know what would be the next step in the matter. Mr. Dalzell will be in Washington until next Wednesday, when he will go to Pittsburgh for the summer. He said he would call on President Roosevelt tomorrow and it is likely that he then will discuss with Mr. Roosevelt the appointment of Mr. McKenna. Senator Penrose will go to Philadelphia tomorrow afternoon. He will call on the president tomorrow morning. The senator received news of Senator Quay's illness from his secretary, W. R. Andrews, and through letters from Morganza, which awaited him at his hotel.

SUGGESTS A SALOON CHARITY.

Liquor Dealers Might Set Aside Part of Receipts for Hospitals.

"Saloonkeepers and Christianity" was the subject of a talk by John Thresher, president of the Pittsburgh Christian association, at the Primitive Christian church, Penn avenue, yesterday morning. Mr. Thresher said in part:

Every year from all parts of Allegheny county hundreds of men throng the license court seeking permission to make and sell strong drink. A large majority of the applicants are successful every years. Many of them said, "I thank thee, O license judge." The inspired David, thousands of years since, for favors granted, said "I thank thee, O Lord." They have read in the newspapers how a number of good women in wooden booths collected yesterday over $1,300 for the hospitals. Those who obtained licenses should share thefe thanks by establishing an annual hospital Saturday. The secretary of one of the liquor dealers associations said: "On an election day all saloons are closed which means a loss of $100,000 to them." Let the liquor dealers combine and give one-tenth of the receipts on a given Saturday. As a result $10,000 would be set aside for the hospitals. It would be a Christian act and they would never miss it, much good would be the result. God would not condemn them and all men would praise them, even the license judges would not refuse a license for such an act.

WITHOUT doubt the strongest character in "THE SHUTTERS OF SILENCE" is the young monk, Brother Colombe. In him centers the chief dramatic interest of the book. But the other characters are equally well-drawn—the well-meaning, easy-going, kind-hearted father; the mother, impulsive, strong-willed but generous; the painfully lifelike little cad, Sir Eustace Carne; and—oh, yes—and Betty. Mr. Burgin is too good an artist to slight any of his characters.

UY YOUR REAL ESTATE WHERE OU ET 4 Per Cent Compound Interest ON YOUR PAYMENTS

A TRUE STORY OF EXISTING CONDITIONS:

Never forget that this grand free excursion gives you opportunity to see what nobody has ever witnessed before—the only large smokeless industrial city that may ever be built.

By asserting that we are calling your attention to the most modern and only large smokeless industrial city that may ever be built, and therefore inviting you to take advantage of the greatest money-making opportunity for real estate investment that may ever be offered, we are putting ourselves in a position we could not afford to take had we not incontrovertible evidences that there will be future developments of magnitude which could not be stopped, retarded or diminished by any power on earth, save by a complete annihilation of the American spirit of progress and this country's inexhaustible mineral wealth, a condition as impossible as would be the destruction of the heavens.

We shall not attempt to disseminate all the facts that would be interesting to persons who appreciate what an investment in the real estate of such a Marvel City is sure to earn for them. We cannot. The proposition is too large. But we will try to give you a few important truths about the beginning of the wonderful project. In other words, a gist of intelligence concerning the thing which has given the Marvel City its birth—the American Bridge Works, and what it will do for the community.

That part of the great bridge plant which has been but recently finished and put into operation would be three miles long and an eighth of a mile wide had it been built in the old days equipped for equal capacity, and yet, when the additions contracted for will have been completed, it will parallel the river front for nearly a mile, and represent what in the old days would have required a continuous chain of buildings stretching along for five miles.

Jot that truth down. Take it to any mechanical engineer qualified to give an opinion. Then sit down and figure what the building sites of this infant city, which are now offered to you at $300 to $2,500, will have advanced to in ten to fifteen years from now. $15,000 to $20,000 on a $2,000 lot would not be beyond the advance in value that should be expected. It is not a better result than Homestead, McKeesport, Lorain, Youngstown or Akron have given, which have not the population that Economy City must have if the places of employment in her industries are to be filled by men living sufficiently close to their work to enable them to reach it without getting up in the mornings before a reasonable hour.

The bridge works in their partially finished condition are employing nearly 2,000 workmen, disbursing more than $100,000 every two weeks in wages, calling hundreds more workmen to employment each month as additional capacity or equipment is finished, and when all the buildings under construction or arranged for are up and in operation will have on its payrolls not less than 7,000 men and likely 8,000, which fact in itself would give a city of 40,000 to 50,000 population, and a wage disbursement of nearly half a million dollars every two weeks.

There are more than 800 draughtsmen and clerks employed in the American Bridge Company's offices alone, who, with their families, would of themselves, to say nothing of the armies of mechanics employed in the works, make a population of 4,000 to 5,000. You can imagine what will be the magnitude of an industry which in its infancy will keep such a regiment of draughtsmen busy. We have said that this monster works, which contains single pieces of machinery that cost more than the entire buildings of very many large factories, will employ 7,000 to 8,000 workmen. An ultra conservative censorship has been put on our writings, or we would say its number of workmen will be easily 15,000. That is what we think the gentlemen who are back of this giant enterprise believe, but will not give out, because they want to be on the safe side and surprise rather than disappoint the public.

With the 7,000 to 8,000 workmen that the American Bridge Works will be sure to have employed, the 500 to 800 that the Pittsburgh Steel Construction Company will have employed in its present building and the two other immense structures that it will soon have under construction, together with the 3,500 to 4,000 workmen that will find work in the great steel barge-building industry contemplated; in the immense boiler works that may be brought into existence to meet the increasing demands of the United States Steel Corporation, which has steam going out of more boilers than there are houses in Pittsburgh; and in the metal tie and metal telegraph pole industry that is more than probable, a population of 71,000 may be considered a careful forecast. 71,000 is a conservative estimate. An optimist would forecast 100,000 population in the next fifteen years, and challenge your judgment if you were to doubt the wisdom of this prediction.

Already, while we have been making preparations to establish this grand central City of Economy, the large town of Ambridge has sprung up at the side of it, where apartment houses will be erected on an elaborate scale; residences are going up in all directions; stores are being built in numbers, and mighty appeals have been pouring in to us ever since last February, beseeching us to open the main or middle of the vast tract, which is the coming great City of Economy, and of which we will not sell even the smallest piece till the morning of the Grand Opening Sale, the starting time of which will be announced by the factory whistles on or about 9:30 a. m.

We want you to remember our promise that we will not sell any of the property in the center of the great new city till the day of sale. The promise will be kept to the letter, and a strict forfeiture of sales and commissions will be imposed on any representative who attempts to break it. We have been offered big premiums for the corner lots on Merchant street, which will be the principal mercantile highway, but to give everybody a fair and equal opportunity, we will put these corners up at auction soon as sale opens.

Terms will be 10 per cent down and 3 per cent monthly for balance, with no taxes nor interest until delivery of deed. 15 per cent discount will be allowed when all cash is paid within thirty days, and 10 per cent discount when a third is paid in cash and a purchase-money mortgage given for balance.

At the first great sale purchasers who buy on installments will receive at the rate of 4 per cent annual interest on each payment that they make promptly in accordance with their agreement, providing they secure at our Pittsburgh office a CERTIFICATE GRANTING BANKING PRIVLEGE, which must be presented on the property with their first payment. Interest may be withdrawn at the end of each six months, and if not withdrawn will be compounded, and the interest credited will earn interest. While paying for your lot you will therefore be drawing an equivalent of what you would earn from money on deposit in bank.

Premiums will also be given to the first hundred who build dwellings, provided CERTIFICATES entitling purchasers to participate, now on distribution at our Pittsburgh office, are presented on property at time purchases are made.

We have said, thus far, nothing about the great work of improving the streets, supplying city conveniences or of the matchless breadth, beauty and perfect levelness of the property.

Pittsburghers, accustomed to very small portions of level land, when it is possible to get level land at all between the mountainous hills which make Western Pennsylvania famous, will be astonished to see miles of it here at Economy. Just as level as the prairie lands of Illinois and Kansas. Not only level, but picturesque. A marvel scene of nature. You will not wonder why the good old Economites settled on this perfect spot.

$65,000 will be spent at once as an initial outlay on the water works system for pumping machinery, pipe lines and reservoir capacity, and $45,000 will be expended to start laying the extensive complete sanitary sewerage system that has been devised. Merchant Street, the business thoroughfare, will be paved its entire length of almost a mile at a cost of $50,000. Illuminating and natural gas will be delivered to the homes and business houses.

A woman of wealth and prominence who bought less than six months ago at the upper end of Merchant Street, in Ambridge, has refused $1,400 more than she paid for her lot, and says she will buy again in Economy City and put up a fine eight-story business block, if she is not crowded out during the rush. Ten others have cleared $800 to $24,000 each on re-sales of Ambridge property, and will try to re-invest it in Economy. These are only some of many similar cases that have been brought to our notice.

There is a sufficient number of inquiries from persons who bought at Ambridge and from merchants located in different parts of the country to have sold out the business section. But, as we promised before, not a lot will be sold in the center of the great new city, the part reserved for the Grand Opening Sale, until 9:30 on the morning of the sale.

The cry of the incoming workmen for sleeping places and night shelter is something terrific. A large body of men that came from Pencoyd and Philadelphia, while this report was being written, said they could find places where they could get something to eat, but not a lodging place within five miles. Others tell similar stories. Premiums are being offered for lodging places. The condition was never paralleled, and Ambridge, on the skirts of the Great Main City, seems powerless with all its masterly speed at building to afford relief.

SUNDAY IS DULL AT ATLANTIC CITY

Piano Dealers May Burn Old Style Instruments on Meadows Instead of Beach.

PITTSBURGHERS AT SHORE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Young's Ocean Pier.
PHILADELPHIA, P. A., May 22.

Though the weather at the shore was ideal today, there were comparatively few persons here, and not more than a dozen bathers in the surf. That the day would be a rather dull one was expected by the hotel man, who knows from experience that the Sunday preceding Memorial day is always rather quiet. The reason for this is that the young people of the nearby cities are saving their efforts at merry-making for the first holiday of the year, that occurs when the weather permits picnics. The hotel men say that there will be a large crowd here next Sunday, and then there will be a lull until the summer season is open, which will be about the middle of June.

There seems to be some doubt about the piano dealers being permitted to build a huge conflre of 1,000 square pianos on the beach for the benefit of those attending the convention of the National Piano Manufacturers' association and the Association of the Piano Dealers of America. The property owners of the city and the fire insurance underwriters, it is understood, have entered a protest, claiming that a sudden change of wind might blow the sparks over the city and start fires. Tonight the announcement is made that if the pianos are not played upon for the last time by flames on the beach they will be carted to the meadows on Tuesday night and the torch applied to them. If this is done the spectacular effect that the piano dealers sought will be lost. However, if any square pianos are to be burned at all they have not been brought to the shore as yet, and as that number of cumbersome old-style instruments would fill at least 50 of the largest freight cars, even if they were shipped from one point, there is a reasonable doubt of their getting here.

At the headquarters of the association, the Hotel Rudolf, it was said tonight that there would be at least 250 delegates from Pittsburgh and vicinity. Those who have already registered are Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bishop of McKees Rocks and R. G. Miller of Huntingdon.

A. H. Leslie, P. J. Barry, Dr. A. E. Walters and Dr. J. P. Shaw of the filtration commission, who were in Philadelphia during the week inspecting the Torresdale filtration plant, came to Atlantic City last night. They will return to Pittsburgh tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeRoy and Mr. and Mrs. Abraham DeRoy are stopping at the Hotel Islesworth. E. D. Griffin is also at the Islesworth.

Daniel Lloyd, a retired steel manufacturer, is spending some time at the Hotel Dunlop.

Judge James H. Reed was among the promenaders on the boardwalk.

Mrs. J. P. Saunders is spending some time at the Albemarle hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lloyd are at the Marlborough house for a few days' rest.

Mrs. Henry Lloyd is registered at the Brighton hotel.

William C. Lewis of Pittsburgh, who is making a tour of the world in his handsome touring car, is in Atlantic City for a stay of several weeks. He is stopping at the Hotel Warner.

Mrs. Robert Jamison, her maid and daughter, Miss M. A. Jamison, are among the Pittsburgh guests at the Brighton hotel.

A party of Western Pennsylvania people stopping at the Windsor hotel include T. W. Guthrie and Carl J. Hostery, also Walter Zinn of Columbus.

NORDICA WOULD NOT SING AT DUSS' FINE OPENING

Due to Her Divorce Case. Economy Bandmaster Receives a Great Ovation.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 22.—John S. Duss received a magnificent ovation tonight when he opened his metropolitan engagement at "Real Estate Corner," at Madison Square garden. Twenty times, at the close of the first piece, he was compelled to step to the front of his band and bow before the wildly applauding audience. All doubt as to the financial success of the project was also dispelled tonight, when the box office receipts were found to total $7,041.

But despite the success of the great first night, the Economy bandmaster had a burden on his shoulders, which doubtless caused him much anxiety. Mme. Lillian Nordica, who has been advertised as his solo star, absolutely refused to appear because of the reopening of her divorce case, and instead, Ruby Cutter Savage was substituted. In the rear of the arena stood Captain Doeme, the disbarred husband of Nordica, and when he saw Miss Savage, instead of his wife, tripping to the footlights, he clapped his hands in glee. Doeme himself is to sing before the end of the engagement.

In honor of Composer Richard Wagner's birthday, Mr. Duss had tonight's program wholly of Wagnerian music, each number being well received by the large audience.

THREE WIDOWS WEEP.

Body of Des Moines Contractor Followed to Grave by Rival Claimants.

DES MOINES, IA., May 22.—When the remains of the late E. L. Dubois, a prominent contractor of this city, were carried to the cemetery today, they were followed by three women, each of whom claims to be his lawful widow.

One came from Denver and gave the name of Mary E. Dubois, claiming that she was married to the dead man in 1890 in Joplin, Mo. The second Mrs. Dubois came from New Orleans; she refused to talk of her claims. The third woman was married to Dubois at West Union, Ia., and had lived with him for some years.

Dubois had had a notable career. He was a French officer in the Franco-Prussian war. As a contractor he did work in all parts of the world, notably in Brazil, where he was decorated by the government for his achievements. He left a considerable estate.

The County Treasurer to Continue to Collect Commissions on State Tax.

County Treasurer D. F. Collingwood returned from the east yesterday. Until he has had a conference with his lawyers, he will not discuss the recent supreme court decision affecting his right to receive a commission on personal property tax collected for the state.

It is understood that he will continue to accept the commissions. This will leave the question up to the commissioner and controller. They will doubtless institute proceedings to compel him to refund the money to the county.

STUDENT OF YALE VICTIM OF POLO

Banker Babcock Receives Fatal Injuries in Game With the Princeton Team.

NOT THOUGHT BADLY HURT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK May 22.

Henry D. Babcock, Jr., son and namesake of a wealthy banker, a freshman at Yale and well known as an athlete, died at his father's home, 20 East Fifty-second street, today from an injury received while playing for Yale in the polo games with Princeton at Van Cortlandt park Saturday afternoon. Two hours before his death it was not thought his injury was at all serious. As the climax to a daring race down field for a tally, he had been struck in the forehead by the mallet of his opponent, W. G. Devereaux, of Princeton.

Insensible for a time, he had apparently recovered, but despite his repeated requests to be allowed to continue playing, he had been sent home. At 2 o'clock in the morning there had come a cerebral hemorrhage against which medical skill was powerless. "Harry" Babcock, although only 20 years of age, had already won a name for himself as a promising athlete, particularly in polo. He was six feet in height and weighed 190 pounds, and had displayed such coolness and riding abilities that before going to college he had played on the second team of the Broadway Hunt club and was looked upon as a worthy successor to some of the veterans of the team when they should retire.

Member of Vanderbilt Hall Set.

He entered college last fall and speedily became popular with his classmates. He was known as a member of the Vanderbilt Hall set. He attended to his studies diligently. At the opening of the spring polo season he was a member of the Yale Polo association and was at once elected a member of the team, which has already played several games.

When the fourth period began in Saturday's game it was hammer and tongs from the start. Only a minute or more after the period had started Babcock from his position got the ball and started down the field toward Princeton's goal. W. C. Devereaux was after him in an instant, and the ponies were put to a tremendous pace that caused the 5,200 onlookers to rise in their places with cheers.

With the ball locked, young Babcock bent far forward, while his opponent continued his desperate efforts at riding off. Once, twice and thrice he failed, and then, with the ball almost on the Princeton goal, both were seen to make a smash. The stroke of both was unsuccessful, but Devereaux's mallet, swinging round, caught his opponent squarely in the forehead. He sank from his pony. To the onlookers it seemed as if the young man made desperate efforts to retain his seat, but in vain, and he slid rather than fell from the saddle, landing on his shoulders. His well-trained pony came to a stop at once and the feet of the rider slipped clear of the stirrups.

Claimed He Felt All Right.

Several minutes later the injured boy sat up and to the others players who had rushed up to him he declared that it was a "good one," but that he felt all right. Protesting vigorously, young Babcock, on the advice of the older men, was taken to an automobile and taken home. He was much hurt at the refusal to allow him to continue and talked of every other subject but his accident on his way home.

At the Babcock residence, 20 East Fifty-second street, Mr. and Mrs. Babcock, the youngest son and Henry D. Babcock, Jr., took dinner. He laughed and enjoyed himself and when it came time to retire he went to his room unassisted, undressed himself and was soon asleep.

Mrs. Babcock heard her son breathing very heavily at 2 o'clock this morning and sent at once for Dr. Alexander Smith, the family physician, and Dr. George Lockwood of 19 East Fifty-second street, and the two physicians at once called in Dr. Robert Abbe. There was no difficulty in diagnosis, and it was determined to perform an operation at once. But so deep had become the coma by this time that it was seen that it would be useless. Within half an hour the young man died.

PENNSY LAYING OFF MEN.

Retrenchment Orders Believed to Be General and Pittsburgh Will Suffer.

As a result of the general retrenchment order recently issued by President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad, it is understood that a number of employes of the Pittsburgh division are to be indefinitely suspended. It is said that all departments of the system will be included in the sweeping order. None of the local officials, however, would admit yesterday that men are to be laid off here.

A dispatch from Harrisburg last night said that the Pennsylvania had laid off 305 shop men at that place and 40 at Columbia. The order was issued Saturday night and took effect Sunday. The notice created much surprise among the men. It is expected that the next move will effect the motive power department.

Altoona and Juniata have already suffered. Several hundred shop employes were suspended over a week ago at Altoona and the working hours reduced to 8 per day and the week to five days.

He missed his footing, was thrown to the street, dislocating his right shoulder, cutting his right arm and sustaining several scalp wounds.

CLAIM NEGROES WERE GUILTY OF MURDER

One Man Killed and Three Are Seriously Wounded in Fray Near Harrisburg.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, May 22.—Steve Boltrich was killed and his cousins, Peter, George and Nicholas Boltrich, seriously hurt in a fight last night in a shanty at Enola, opposite this city. The four men were employed on the Pennsylvania railroad improvements at Enola and lived in the shanty.

The story told by the brothers is that a party of negroes demanded admittance for the purpose of robbing them and being refused, they broke down the door and shot their cousin through the head, killing him almost instantly, and cutting and shooting the others.

One of the brothers was shot twice in the left arm and once in the body; another has a bullet in the arm and the third was cut about the head. The police discredit the story of the brothers that they were assaulted by negroes, and believe that the men quarreled among themselves.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH DOES HONOR TO ITS FOUNDER

Seventy-Third Anniversary Services Held at Home of Dr. Campbell.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., May 22.—The seventy-third anniversary of the foundation of the Christian Church of America was fittingly observed by the First Christian church of Washington today. Special interest in these exercises was taken on account of the fact that the church had its birth in Washington, and the home of its founder, the Rev. Alexander Campbell, in this borough, is still standing.

The anniversary service at the First Christian church was at 10:50 o'clock this morning, being in charge of the pastor, the Rev. E. A. Cole. Communion services were observed, a special anniversary sermon was preached and an historical sketch of the church was read. The parent church is now one of the strongest in the country. Many prominent members of the Christian church from many parts of the country were present at the anniversary exercises today.

FEEDING THE SQUIRRELS DELIGHT OF GOVERNOR

Chief Executive Has Great Fun With Timid Creatures in Capitol Park.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, May 22.—Gov. Pennypacker takes great delight in feeding the gray squirrels in Capitol park, and every day, before leaving the executive mansion for his office, he fills his coat pockets with nuts for the little fellows. Some of the squirrels are quite tame, and the governor delights to have them crawl up his legs on to his arms and shoulders and eat out of his hands.

He goes to his office in the morning about 9 o'clock, which is about the time the squirrels are hunting their breakfast, and frequently he is surrounded by half a dozen of the little fellows eating out of his hands. While feeding the squirrels yesterday one old fellow stood up on his hind legs, with his front paws outstretched, and eyed suspiciously a chestnut in the governor's outstretched hand.

"Come, old fellow, here's a nut for you," said the governor, coaxingly to the squirrel, which did not move. "Come on. He who hesitates is lost. If you don't come I'll give it to someone else." The squirrel finally leaped onto the governor's leg, ran up to his shoulder, and was rewarded with the chestnut and an extra almond.

Col. John A. Glenn, corporation deputy auditor general, and Frederick W. Fleitz, deputy attorney general, also make a practice of feeding the squirrels every morning on their way to their offices. There are now nearly 150 squirrels scattered about the park. They travel all over the city on the telegraph and telephone cables, and are scarcely ever molested.

GOOD HOPE FOR CHURCH UNION

Pittsburgh Pastor Believes That Greater Presbyterian Body Is Probable.

STRONG MEN LEAD OPPOSITION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 22.—The ministers attending the 116th general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of North America occupied various pulpits in the city today. The Rev. J. Addison Henry, the new moderator, preached in the Lafayette Presbyterian church. Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton occupied the pulpit of Westminster church.

There was a union meeting of all the Presbyterian Sunday schools in the city this afternoon.

Popular meetings were held in the evening in the interest of the board of aid for colleges and of the woman's board of home missions, and a mass meeting for evangelism.

The Rev. S. Edward Young, one of the speakers at the mass meeting for evangelism, said in part:

"My confident expectation is that the present movement toward union, after mutual concessions, yet without sacrifice of an essential doctrine, will eventually unite the Northern and Southern and Cumberland Presbyterian churches in one mighty Presbyterian church, with something like 11,000 ministers, 14,000 churches and 1,500,000 members and possibly 1,000,000 more adherents."

The proposed union of the Cumberland and Northern churches continues to be the absorbing topic among the commissioners of the assembly. The supporters and opponents of union are lining up for the contest next Thursday. The opposition will be led by Dr. Francis L. Patton of Princeton Theological seminary. Dr. Henry C. Minton of Trenton, N. J., who was moderator of the assembly in 1901; Dr. J. Ross Stevenson of New York, and General Ralph E. Prime of Yonkers, N. Y. The grounds of opposition are the doctrinal position of the Cumberland church and the color line.

In support of the proposed plan of union there will be the stated clerk of the assembly, Dr. William Henry Roberts, Dr. Charles A. Dickey, moderator in 1900; Dr. Robert F. Coyle, retiring moderator; Dr. Howard A. Johnston of New York, and Dr. James Moffatt of Washington and Jefferson college, Pennsylvania.

It is conceded that a majority of the assembly favors union with the Cumberland church, but there is an influential minority opposed to union on the terms proposed.

JOHNSON TRIES TO PUSH FOLK

Continues His Effort to Help Missourian Get the Nomination.

SAYS IT'S ALL FOR HARMONY

CLEVELAND, May 22.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson of this city, in an interview tonight, told why he would like to see Joseph W. Folk of Missouri the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Mr. Johnson said that according to his view of the political situation Mr. Folk would be a harmony candidate and would unite the factions that now adhere to either the Parker or Hearst interests, or the principles represented by these men. He would be agreeable to Hill and Cleveland and would be indorsed by Bryan. The mayor said that his good opinion of Mr. Folk did not necessarily mean that he favored his nomination; there are other men, he said, who more nearly represent his ideas and stand for what he does, but these men would be sure to meet with opposition from factional interests in the party and would be weak as candidates.

Mayor Johnson said he did not believe Folk was seeking the presidential nomination; that he was as good as elected governor of Missouri, but no man has ever turned aside the nomination to the presidency and declined to be the leader of a great party.

CHICAGO, May 22.—William Jennings Bryan said today, while in Chicago, that he thought the Democratic party would not be reorganized at the St. Louis convention.

"The plan to bring about a reorganization of the party will be defeated," he said. "The paramount issue in the campaign will be government by the people as against government by the corporations. The people will control the St. Louis convention, and the Kansas City platform will be reaffirmed, in my judgment."

"Do you expect to go to St. Louis as a delegate?" was asked.

"Well, it looks that way now, though I can't be sure," was the reply.

PHILADELPHIA IS KIND TO NEGROES

Pattison Says They Vote Often. Legislature Denies Safeguard to Ballot.

HOPEFUL OF PARTY'S SUCCESS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Former Governor Robert E. Pattison of Pennsylvania is confident of Democratic success in the election this year. He says:

"I believe that the conservative sentiment of the country today is with the Democratic party, and if the Democratic party can satisfy that sentiment by its action at the national convention it will receive the approval of the people of the country at the polls next November.

"The Democracy must adhere to the principles of the constitution as expounded by Thomas Jefferson and stick close to the precepts of the Democratic founders of our government. The safety of the country and the party is secured by such a course.

"I hope you will excuse me at this time from the expression of any further opinion on the national situation. I am a delegate to the convention at St. Louis and the delegation is under the unit rule, and I cannot therefore, without conference with my colleagues, give further expression."

Mr. Pattison, however, in answer to a question bearing on the local political situation in his own city and state, said:

"Greater New York contains 3,000,000 more people than the city of Philadelphia, yet the city of Philadelphia has 100,000 more registered voters than the city of New York. New York requires personal registration, while Philadelphia has been denied this safeguard to the ballot box by the state legislature. All that is necessary in Philadelphia is for a list of the voters to be made up according to the reports of the assessors. The judges there never have ordered the opening of the ballot box on an affidavit of fraud at the polls.

"Philadelphia has the largest negro population of any city of the United States except New Orleans, and the latter city has only 12,000 more negroes than Philadelphia. Philadelphia has 63,000 negroes and the state of Pennsylvania 187,000. In Philadelphia the negro population, based on figures of very recent years, is increasing at the rate of 3,000 per annum. While the negroes claim they are debarred from voting at all in the south, they vote two or three times at each election in Philadelphia. In 1897 there was a congressional investigation as to the conduct of elections in Philadelphia, but such an investigation is more needed now than at any time in the city's history."

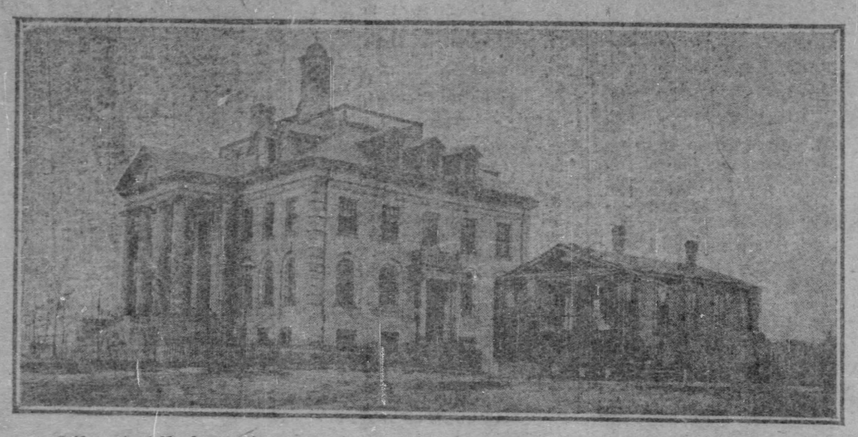
CASTORIA.
Beare the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

NEW SCHOOLHOUSE SIDE BY SIDE WITH THE ORIGINAL



Colfax school No. 2, near the eastern city line, which is one of the handsomest and most up-to-date institutions of its kind in Pittsburgh, stands beside the old frame structure, little bigger than a cabin, which was the first school in that district.

The cabin rapidly became too small and a large frame building was erected, but it also began to get cramped and the brick building was finished a short time ago.

The cabin still stands beside its more modern successor, but the frame structure that came between them has been moved to other foundations and it will be used as a dwelling house.

INSPECTOR CASE GOES TO COURTS

Must Decide Controversy Between Governor Pennypacker and Secretary Brown.

POLITICIANS ARE INTERESTED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
HARRISBURG, P. A., May 22.

The contest between Gov. Pennypacker and Secretary of Internal Affairs Brown over the sealers of scales, weights and measures recently appointed by the governor for the cities of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Scranton is attracting almost as much interest among politicians in the state as the dispute over the judges' salary act of 1903.

Philadelphia politicians are especially interested in the Pennypacker-Brown squabble because, if the governor's action is sustained by the courts, the commissioners of that city will ask him to appoint 16 inspectors for Philadelphia. Secretary Brown has retained Lyman D. Gilbert of this city to defend him in the mandamus suit which Attorney General Carson has brought in the Dauphin county court to compel the secretary to equip the inspectors already appointed by the governor.

Mr. Gilbert is preparing an answer to the attorney's petition for a mandamus, which he will file on Wednesday, after which the court will fix a day for the hearing. He defended ex-State Treasurer Harris in the judges' salary contest and is regarded as one of the foremost constitutional lawyers in the state. Acting on Mr. Gilbert's advice, Secretary Brown has refused to equip the inspectors, for the reason that the act of 1895, under which they were appointed, is unconstitutional.

Secretary Brown contends that the appropriation of $2,500 made by the last legislature for the purchase of the equipment by himself is insufficient, and assigns this as one of his reasons for refusing to equip the inspectors.

If the Dauphin county court decides against Secretary Brown it is expected he will carry the case to the supreme court. In that event the inspectors would not secure their equipment until late in the fall, if that court should sustain the lower court.

CONCERTS IN THE PARKS.

Weather Drew Large Audiences to Listen to Musical Programs.

The weather brought crowds to all the parks, and at the trolley parks there were hundreds of persons day and evening. The cycle whirl opened at Kennywood yesterday, while a number of the other features shared in the good patronage. The Homestead Library band gave two concerts. The free vaudeville show at Kennywood begins today in the new theater.

Calhoun park had a mixed bill including concert artists instead of the usual brass band concerts afternoon and evening. The Colonial Comedy Four headed the program. Master Earl Lindsay pleased his audience immensely, while Edwin C. Kelly, whistler and imitator, and William Smith, musical artist, were warmly applauded. Miss Harriet Davies sang.

The Eighteenth Regiment band played at Southern park, and with them was the Lone Star quartet. John Morgania and William Morgan, baritone, and Greer and Dooley, cornet, were the band soloists. Oakwood park had the Robert Pitcairn band and the H. J. Lindsay quartet sang.

The police also received a complaint from a woman in Ann street a short time afterward that a man was trying to break in at her rear window. When the police investigated they found a hat which Edward Miles said belonged to his brother. Harry Miles' arrest followed soon afterward.

FRUIT CROP TO BE PLENTIFUL

Early Varieties Suffered from the Weather, but Reports Show a Record Season.

THE QUALITY TO BE GOOD

The arrival of a few boxes of California cherries, a few quarts of Georgia peaches and a small number of crates containing Florida cantaloupes, last week, aroused considerable interest among retail dealers and the general public regarding fruit prospects for the season which is so near at hand. Inside of 10 days fruits will be on the Pittsburgh market in fair supply, and the kind, varieties and the prices already concerns many persons. This feature is what brings out the inquirers that have already commenced to stroll along Liberty avenues with anxious eyes and mouths full of questions.

The severe winter has been hard on early fruit, but has been a protection to the fruit that comes late. Early varieties of pears are said to have been affected considerably, but frost has stayed off so far, and the apple, pear and cherry orchards of the country are reported to be in a very flattering condition, both for the man that buys and the man that sells.

Worrying Over Cars.

Southern peaches will be here in abundance by June 15. It is claimed that Georgia will have the "bumper" crop of its history. Conservative estimates for this state place the output at 3,500 cars. Railroad men are planning for 5,000 cars. For the first time in years, the growers there are worrying less the railroads may not have sufficient refrigerator cars to handle the crop. Texas growers are not worrying over this, however, inasmuch as the laws there make it possible for growers to recover damages from transportation companies in case cars are not provided to handle the produce within reasonable length of time after delivery at a fruit station. Alabama's peach crop is expected to reach 15,000 bushels. The crop has already started to move from Louisiana, where reports are very encouraging. The Carolinas are going to be unusually productive of peaches, though the early varieties in Ohio and Pennsylvania have been hurt considerably by the severe winter.

Strawberries were very hard to get all last week; that is, good stock was scarce. The Carolina crops are about exhausted and dealers as well as purchasers are looking forward eagerly to the coming week, when Tennessee and Maryland berries will be in full abundance, furnishing a chance for the housekeeper to buy for canning purposes. Reports are that Virginia will turn out a big crop of strawberries, and, from indications, they will be selling at an unusually low figure before the second week in June.

Great Melon Market.

Local jobbers have already contracted for mammoth shipments of melons, pears, apples and cherries. Growers of plants in Bonner, Ga., expect to ship in carlots not later than May 25, and in view of the fact that some of the largest melon houses in the United States are located in Pittsburgh, the local trade will be well provided in this line sooner than expected. In speaking of the situation Matlock, David Brown of Albany, Ga., who was in the city last week, said:

"We will commence shipping now very soon. Our company grows and controls about 800 acres in cantaloupes, about 25 cars of which come to this city every year. In watermelons we have about 1,500 acres, with a prospective yield of 500 cars. We will commence shipping the watermelons about June 15. Your city is a great melon center, and consumers will all be disappointed either in quality or quantity this season. I imagine prices will get down pretty low this time because the crops are so big."

Reports received from Coachella, Cal., are that grapes are looking fine and give promise of a good crop. Similar reports have been received from other well-known grape-raising sections. The cherry crop this year will be about the average. Two weeks ago it appeared that the cherry crop of California would be a record-breaker, but warm weather, with winds, dwarfed and shriveled the crop, reducing the prospective quantity.

Prices Will Be Low.

There will no doubt be a shortage of some varieties of green fruits, occasioned by unfavorable results following rainy seasons in various sections of the western states. This weather caught almonds and apricots and the Japanese varieties of prunes and plums. This shortage, however, according to dealers here, is to be overcome by heavy crops of other fruits which are not so susceptible, such as the Bartlett pear, of which there will be an abundant crop of a quality that was never excelled.

Fruit prospects are encouraging throughout New Jersey. This will be an off year in apples at different places in New Jersey and New York, but cherries will be a full crop pretty generally in the east, including Pennsylvania.

A. M. Travis, a well-known local fruit wholesaler, said yesterday, summing up reports from all parts of the country: "Pittsburgh and vicinity will be better supplied with fruit this season than usual. The prices will get down to a reasonable basis and the quality will be tempting to an unexpected degree. Peaches and cherries will soon be here, and the pears, from what I understand, will be forthcoming before very long from California."

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY.

Ninetieth Year of Young Men's Bible Society Marked With Exercises.

The ninetieth anniversary of the Young Men's Bible society of Allegheny county was celebrated yesterday afternoon in the Eighth Street Reformed Presbyterian church. Joseph R. Orr, agent in charge of the work, presided. Corresponding Secretary J. Walter Hay read the annual report showing that nearly 12,000 Bibles were distributed during the year among foreigners in this vicinity. The books were in 34 different languages. The Rev. H. H. George of Beaver Falls delivered a sermon on the "Necessity and Purpose of the Scriptures."

SCHOLARS THINK FRICK THE MAN

Young Rockefeller Lectures to Bible Class on Person Who Had Faith.

HIS CONFIDENCE JUSTIFIED

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 22.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., lectured his Bible class today on "Faith," and presented to them as a shining example a man whom his hearers took to be H. C. Frick.

"Faith," said Mr. Rockefeller, "gives substance to the religious aspirations of the soul, assuring us that they rest on truth and fact and not mere castles in the air. The trouble with us men is that we do not have sufficient faith. We should have more faith in God and more faith in our fellowmen. The fact that we all have been deceived at times by people we have placed faith in should not make us lose heart.

"I had a talk with a gentleman a few days ago who is at the head of a large industrial enterprise, a man who has been harrassed by labor troubles and strikes, and I asked him if, during one of the great strikes, when everyone seemed against him, he did not go around armed or have a bodyguard.

Had Faith in Himself.

"He said no, that he had faith in his judgment and knew that he was right, and that knowledge was of itself a safeguard to him."

The class smiled knowingly. They knew that Mr. Rockefeller had just returned from an inspection of the steel industry in Pittsburgh, where he was the guest of Mr. Frick. The gentleman he referred to was undoubtedly Mr. Frick, and the labor troubles were the strikes in which many workmen were shot down.

"That man's faith in himself was justified," continued Mr. Rockefeller, "for results demonstrated that he was right, and the others wrong.

"We all should have more faith in ourselves. I do not mean by that that a man should be conceited and egotistical, but that we should have faith in our abilities.

"The man that has no faith in himself seldom accomplishes much. He is not of much use to himself or to the world.

Means More Than Formerly.

"Faith commences where knowledge ends, and it means more today than it did in the days of the apostles. The word seems to have grown stronger during the ages and centuries it has passed through in coming down to us.

"We can get far more out of a man if he thinks we have faith in him. If a man comes to you and gives you an order for a piece of work, and at the same time tells you that he does not believe that you can do it, your work will probably not be as good as if he came and told you that he believed that you could do it well. Now let us have more faith in ourselves, more faith in mankind and more faith in God, and you will find that our lives will be the better for it."

ALLEGHENY WAS DRY.

Superintendent of Police Campbell Says Absolutely No Liquor Was Sold.

Allegheny was an absolutely dry city yesterday, according to Police Superintendent Campbell. If his statement is correct, it was the first dry Sunday Allegheny has known for at least a half-century.

Every place known to the North Side police as a speakeasy or disorderly house was closely watched, but not one was found to be selling. Several places under suspicion were entered by the police after seeing persons enter and leave them, but, although a search was made of each, not a bottle of beer or whisky could be found.

"We certainly have them on the run," said Campbell. "I gave the men strict orders to search every place where people were going in and out and to arrest those found if even one bottle of beer was there. I think we have them well frightened."

NO INDORSEMENT FOR MR. HEARST

Conservative Democrats Will Be in Control of Ohio Convention.

ARE TWO LEADING FAVORITES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—The Democratic state convention will be held here next Tuesday and Wednesday. There have been contests in most of the 88 counties for Hearst delegates. All who are opposed to Hearst are classed as conservatives, and as they have a majority of the uncontested delegates they will no doubt decide the contests against the Hearst contestants and control the convention.

The conservatives are, however, divided in their presidential preferences between Col. James Kilbourne of Columbus, who was the Democratic candidate for governor three years ago; Judge Judson Harmon of Cincinnati, who was attorney general under President Cleveland, and Joseph W. Folk of Missouri. Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland is heading the boom in Ohio for Folk.

Among those mentioned for delegates-at-large are former Congressman John A. McMahon of Dayton, Mayor Edward H. Moore of Youngstown, Gen. E. B. Finley of Bucyrus, Walter B. Ritchie of Lima, Judge J. F. Lindamann of Lima, Melville E. Ingalls of Cincinnati, William S. Thomas of Springfield, John L. Zimmerman of Springfield, Congressman John W. Cassingham of Coshocton, Abraham L. Patrick of New Philadelphia, Gen. A. J. Warner of Marietta, John C. Welty of Canton and former Congressman John J. Lentz of Columbus.

There is now no doubt that the conservatives will name the delegates and the state ticket, as well as dictate the resolutions. No instructions for any candidate are expected, but either Kilbourne or Harmon will be indorsed as "the Ohio favorite," and the delegates will be instructed "to vote as a unit whenever a majority of the delegation so elects." It is claimed by the conservatives that under such a modified unit rule Hearst will not get a vote from Ohio, although his adherents have carried several districts.

While no attempt will be made to instruct for Judge Parker, or even to commend him, it is believed that he is the second choice of both the Kilbourne and the Harmon men who expect to control the convention. Mayor Johnson is expected to co-operate with the conservatives in organizing the convention, as there are contesting delegations from Cleveland, and the conservatives in turn will seat the Johnson delegation.

Gambler Goes to Workhouse.

Charles McCourt of 18 East Lacock street, Allegheny, yesterday pleaded guilty to running a gambling house at the Valley Athletic club, East street. The place was raided on Saturday, but McCourt escaped and was arrested later. He was sent to the workhouse for 90 days in default of a fine of $100 and costs.

Allegheny High School Commencement.

Allegheny High school will hold its commencement on Friday evening, June 17. The exercises will be at the Nixon theater and the Rev. Maitland Alexander of the First Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, will be the orator. It is expected there will be a class of about 100.

CHILL WINDS

Are the dread of those whose lungs are "weak." Some fortunate people can follow the summer as it goes southward, and escape the cold blasts of winter and the chill airs of spring. But for the majority of people this is impossible. Family cares and business obligations hold them fast.

"Weak" lungs are made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures the obstinate cough, heals the inflamed tissues, stops the hemorrhage, and restores the lost flesh to the emaciated body.

"I am a railroad agent," writes I. B. Staples, Esq., of Barclay, Geary Co., Kans., "and four years ago my work keeping me in a warm room and stepping out frequently into the cold air gave me bronchitis, which became chronic and deep seated. Doctors failed to reach my case and advised me to try a higher air, but, fortunately for me, a friend also advised me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and by the time I had taken the first bottle I was better, and after taking about four bottles my cough was entirely gone. I have found no necessity for seeking another climate."

Sometimes a dealer, tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines, will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery."

COMES TO SELECT A NEW CARDINAL

Well Informed Catholics Say This Is Real Reason of Satolli's Visit.

CANDIDATES' FRIENDS HOPING

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 22.—It is said among well-informed Catholics here that the real reason for Cardinal Satolli's approaching visit to this country is for no less a purpose than as the personal representative of the pope, with a view to selecting the new American cardinal. It will be remembered that Pope Leo XIII. several years ago sent Cardinal Satolli to the United States on an important mission. The cardinal is probably the only Italian cardinal of the 37 who speaks English fluently and who understands America.

Several reasons have been given for the cardinal's visit. It has been stated that he has been sent to this country by Pope Pius X. to attend the world's fair at St. Louis; again it is said that he is coming to Spring Lake, N. J., at the request of Mr. Maloney, the Philadelphia multi-millionaire, to officiate at the marriage of his daughter on June 22 to Louis Carberry Ritchie of Washington. While Cardinal Satolli may officiate at Miss Maloney's wedding and may attend the world's fair, it is believed that he is here on the mission outlined above at the insistence of the pope and that America will have two cardinals in the near future, instead of one as now.

There is much speculation as to who the man to be selected will be. Three archbishops are prominently mentioned, Farley of New York, Ryan of Philadelphia and Ireland of St. Paul. The fact that Cardinal Satolli will be with Archbishop Ryan in Philadelphia during his stay in this country adds to the hope of friends that the Philadelphia archbishop is likely to be the new addition to the college of cardinals. But it is certain that his eminence will spend some time in New York, and it is also said he is to visit St. Paul. So the friends of all three are hopeful. It is confidently believed in Catholic circles here that when Satolli returns to Rome the red hat will be conferred on one of these three eminent prelates.

MORAL LESSONS OF STANLEY'S LIFE

The Rev. E. M. Wood Discussed Noble Character of the Great Explorer.

"Moral Lessons from the Life of Henry M. Stanley" was the subject of a sermon delivered in the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning by the pastor, the Rev. E. M. Wood. The pastor said in part:

That common quotation of Longfellow is that the lives of great men are remembered to the living, and they are so by their successes and their deeds. The life of Henry M. Stanley, who recently died in London, was so remarkable as to deserve special public notice. He was, like Livingstone, born of humble parentage in Wales and spent the first 18 years of his life in the poor home. He then taught school for a short time and then shipped as cabin boy to New Orleans. Here he was adopted by a citizen whose name the boy adopted instead of his real name, which was John Rowlands. When the civil war broke out Stanley enlisted in the confederate army and was taken prisoner. Being released he enlisted in the United States navy and became an ardent Union man. After the close of the war he went to Turkey and Asia Minor as a newspaper correspondent. He went as correspondent for the New York Herald, with the British expedition to Abyssinia. He headed the expedition of the direction of the New York Herald in search of Livingstone, the explorer in Africa, of whom but little information had been received for two years.

Having found him and furnished him with abundant supplies, he returned to England and was received with great honors by the queen and others. Perhaps his greatest adventure was when he was sent out in 1887 from England for the relief of Emin Pasha, who was surrounded in Central Africa with a hostile army which threatened his extermination. He spent three years in the continent, from the Congo to Zanzibar and on his return was received again with distinguished honors. It is to this wonderful expedition we shall mainly refer for the moral lessons which we desire to enforce. Stanley in his book wrote his two large volumes in 65 days. This may not seem strange, knowing he had been a newspaper correspondent and had written two or three volumes before this.

His acknowledgement of providential help and care is most beautiful and unhesitating. He says: "Constrained at the darkest hour to examine centers that without God's help I was helpless, I vowed a vow in the forest depths that I would confess His aid before men. * * * Nine hours later we were resting with rapturous joy. I feel utterly unable to attribute our salvation to any other cause than to the gracious Providence." At another time when reduced to the lowest extremity he had ever experienced, when starvation seemed to stare them in the face, they found a native village where, for a few cubits towl fell at their feet. He devoutly and naturally refers to Elijah having been fed by the ravens in the wilderness. How true is the heart's most dark extremity is God's opportunity. And in his outfit for that long and perilous journey he did not forget his Bible. Before retiring it was his custom to read his Bible so that during those three years he read the Bible through once and on a night had gotten as far as Deuteronomy, where Moses said to Joshua, 'Be strong and of good courage, fear not nor be afraid of them, for the Lord thy God, He it is that doth go with thee. He will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.' Was the heart ever there more in the great African chief and warrior Mazaniser, whose army they met and routed.

Mr. Stanley closed his work in these words: 'Thanks be to God forever and ever. Amen.' And perhaps no man ever received more universal and cordial congratulations upon the completion of any work than did Mr. Stanley. Livingstone and Stanley stand unapproached in service as Christian explorers and Christian heroes.

THEFT OF LIQUOR CHARGED AGAINST A TRIO OF MEN

Thomas Dixon of Second avenue, Hazelwood, William Martin of Sylvan avenue, and Clark Sodice of Braddock were held for court by Magistrate E. C. Negley, at the Oakland station, on a charge of larceny, made by H. H. Smith of 4723 Second avenue, a wholesale liquor dealer. He claims the men stole a quantity of beer and whisky from his store several nights ago. In default of bail, they were committed to jail.

New Home of Congregation Started in Log School

Thirteen years ago a few devout United Presbyterians under the leadership of Henry Warner met in an old log school house in Aspinwall and organized a church. Now the congregation numbers over 200 members, more than enough to fill the frame building that some years ago took the place of the old school house. On the site of the present church at the southwest corner of Center avenue and Third street a new church will shortly be erected at an estimated cost of $20,000.

The design submitted by Architects McCollum & Dowler has been accepted and as soon as the old church is moved back to the rear of the lot the new building will be started. This will be a brick and terra cotta structure with a total seating capacity of 600 persons.

It will contain in addition to a large auditorium, Sunday school rooms, a finished basement, dining rooms, kitchen, pastor's study and lecture rooms. Next Christmas is the time fixed for its completion. The Rev. J. A. Duff is the pastor of the church and G. G. Small, L. L. McClelland, D. C. Pollock, John Gault, Samuel McMoren, Frank Gaut and Ross Love compose the building committee.

EXPORTS ARE OF IMMENSE VALUE

Farm Products Sent Abroad Last Year Were Worth $878,479,451.

ALMOST A RECORD BREAKER

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The department of agriculture has issued a report on "The Nation's Farm Surplus," prepared by George K. Holmes, chief of the division of foreign market. It gives $4,500,000,000 as a conservative estimate of the value of the farm products of this country not fed to live stock in 1903, on the basis of the census valuation. The value of the exported farm products of this country was in 1903 $878,479,451 and the highest value reached during the last 11 years was $861,628,831 in 1901, due chiefly to cotton.

The value of the exported farm products of this country is concentrated mostly in a few principal products. Of it in 1903 cotton constituted 36 per cent, grain and grain products 26 per cent, meat and meat products and live animals 24 per cent, those products equaling over 85 per cent of the exports of farm products last year. Adding tobacco, whose exports were valued at over $35,000,000, oil cake and oil cake meal $19,838,279, fruit and nuts over $18,000,000 and vegetable oils over $16,000,000, give a total of eight classes of products each with an export value of over $10,000,000 that comprise almost 96 per cent of the entire farm exports of 1903.

Within recent years, ending with 1903, the cotton exports have been between 3,000,000,000 and 4,000,000,000 of pounds and the exported fraction of the crop has been between 63 and 71 per cent for a long series of years. The fraction of the wheat crop exported in the last dozen years has been about 31 to 41 per cent and the exported wheat and flour have nearly averaged more than 200,000,000 bushels since 1897, before which period for many years the quantity was usually 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels.

Only a small portion of the corn or maize crop is exported as corn, the highest percentage, 11 per cent, being for 1898. Notwithstanding the small percentage, the exported bushels reach 100,000,000 to 200,000,000. The beef exports weighed 385,000,000, pork exports 551,000,000, lard exports 490,000,000, oleo oil exports 126,000,000 and tobacco 368,000,000 pounds.

Butter and cheese exports have decidedly declined within two or three years. The report says that within a few years the results of an enormous extension of orchard planting will begin to appear and some of these results may be in a much increased fruit surplus for export.

The exports of animal matter are losing ground relatively with a corresponding gain by vegetable matter. Taking up the destination of the surplus, the report says the United Kingdom takes about one-half, Germany one-sixth, the Netherlands, Belgium, Canada and Italy from 3 to 5 per cent each. China in recent years takes $1,000,000 worth annually and they go to Russian China, Korea and Greenland and Iceland and other remote portions of the earth. From 85 to 90 per cent of the total goes to Europe, 6 to 7 per cent to North America and less than 2 per cent each to Asia, South America, Africa and Oceanica.

The report also takes up the competition of this country in foreign markets, showing that this country furnished 32 per cent of the United Kingdom's imports of farm products, thus leading in these imports. The United States has a long lead over its competitors as a purveyor of meat and meat products and live animals, is likewise pre-eminently conspicuous in the United Kingdom's imports of cereals and cotton, but is far behind its competitors in dairy products.

MT. WASHINGTONIANS SPENT HUNGRY SUNDAY

Residents of Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington, survived yesterday on a light diet. Shortly before the breakfast hour arrived it was discovered that one or more porch climbers had investigated all refrigerators that were exposed in the rear of dwellings along the avenue and had ransacked them of eatables, and that nothing digestible had escaped attention. The police were notified by a score of sufferers.

LONELY SABBATH FOR MRS. CORDOVA

No News of Eloping Minister and Girl—Preacher's Reference to Affair.

$1,500 WIFE'S MONEY TAKEN

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 22.—Mrs. J. F. Cordova, wife of the eloping South River Methodist minister, and her three children, spent a lonely Sabbath at their home across the way from the church today. Mrs. Cordova this afternoon had not heard any news as to the whereabouts of her husband. J. Conover Bowne, the father of the missing choir singer, Miss Julia Bowne, returned Saturday night from Philadelphia, where he had watched the steamship piers, thinking the elopers might sail. He found no clue and has given up the search. He spent today with his family at home, none of the members of the Bowne or Cordova families attending the services. The Rev. Robert Eden of this city preached. His morning text was, "But Godliness is profitable to all things."

The preacher in his prayer asked help for those members of the church in great tribulation. In his sermon he said Christians were put in high positions because they were Christians, although now and then one runs away taking cash with him. This was applicable, as the eloping minister took $1,500 of his wife's money and is said to have taken some church money. The congregation dispersed quickly, without mentioning the name Cordova once.

Some of the women present visited the parsonage after church and condoled with Mrs. Cordova. R. Van Dyke Reid taught the pastor's class at the Sunday chool.

QUARTET OF PRISONERS MAY FACE MANY CHARGES

Oakland Police Expect Suspected Rug Thieves Will Be Severely Punished.

Mrs. Barbara Thornton, John Walko, his wife, Mary Walko, and Mrs. Mary Ginskey of Ethel street, Hazelwood, arrested by the Oakland police Saturday for stealing scores of carpets and porch rugs from residents of the Oakland district during the last six months, will be given a hearing before Magistrate E. P. Negley tomorrow morning.

The plunder secured at the Walko home by the police, and which is at the Oakland station awaiting identification, almost completely fills one of the large cells. Yesterday John Dimling of Oakland square and Mrs. C. E. Jones of Atwood street called at the station and identified two of the carpets as having been stolen from them a short time ago. The police expect to have most of the stuff claimed before the hearing takes place, and the quartet will likely have to face a dozen or more charges of larceny.

When the Walko residence was searched by the police 87 half-gallon jugs of whisky were found and confiscated.

OBSERVED THREE ANNIVERSARIES

A Trio of Commemorative Exercises Conducted Yesterday in Trinity Church.

Three anniversary services were conducted yesterday in the Trinity Protestant Episcopal church, Sixth avenue. In the morning the 51st anniversary of the Prayer Book society of the Pittsburgh diocese was observed, it also being the 355th anniversary of the use of the prayer book in English, being established on Whit Sunday, 1549. The rector, the Rev. A. A. Arundel, delivered a lengthy and interesting address on "The Catholicity of the Prayer Book." There was a large attendance.

In the afternoon the annual rally of the Sunday School institute of the diocese was celebrated, and 1,200 teachers and scholars were present. An address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Rice of Philadelphia.

In the evening Dr. Duhring delivered the annual address to the St. Barnabas Guild for Nurses. Dr. Duhring, who is in charge of the city mission work of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Philadelphia, which supports two hospitals for consumptives, spoke on "Selfishness as Against Usefulness," and took for his text, Isiah, xliv:6, "They help, every one, his neigabor, and everyone said to his brother, 'Be of good courage.'" He advocated practical Christianity and good will and kindness to all. Many nurses of the guild were present, and the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead presided.

VARIED COLLECTION OF REFRESHMENTS SEIZED

A rare collection of loot was gathered in by the Oakland police yesterday in a raid on the alleged speakeasy of Patrick Donnelly 5 Acorn street. The proprietor and two visitors were arrested. After searching the premises, which consists of a four-room frame house, the police confiscated 44 eighths of beer, 9 gallons of whisky, 7 cases of pop, 8 boxes of cigars, 3 boxes of tobies, 8 gallons of ice cream. They found no cigarettes.

PASTOR RUSSELL RETURNS FROM LONG JOURNEY TO CALIFORNIA

Spoke at the Bible House Chapel on the Anniversary of the Day of Pentecost.

BOTH KINGS AND PRIESTS

Pastor C. T. Russell arrived home on Saturday from attendance at a series of conventions in the west. He was in excellent health, his long and rapid journeying apparently not affecting him. A crowded audience as usual greeted him at the Bible House chapel at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His topic was the significance of the Day of Pentecost to the Christian, from the text:

"And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. * * * And they were all filled with the holy spirit."—Acts 11:1-4.

The pastor said:

I am glad to be with the home friends again, and glad to talk to you today, especially considering the meaning of Pentecost, of which this day is the anniversary. Strictly speaking, Friday last was the exact anniversary of Pentecost, but since Pentecost the difference between the Jewish method and that now in vogue for reckoning the calendar accounts for this difference. Pentecost, however, was on a Sunday, as was also the Lord's resurrection, commemorated in what we call Passover Sunday or Easter Sunday. Christians are generally agreed that the crucifixion took place on the afternoon of the sixth day of the week, namely, on call Friday, that our Lord was in the tomb on the seventh day of the week, the Jewish Sabbath, which we term Saturday. The word "pentecost" signifies the fiftieth day. These 50 days began to count from the Jewish Passover feast, the fourteenth day of Nisan; seven times seven weeks brought the account to another Jewish Sabbath, and the 50th day following that would be the first of a new week in the Jewish reckoning—the 50th day of Jubilee day. This reckoning of the 50th day following it, namely, Pentecost, are the beginning of the "Feast of Weeks" which the Jews celebrated year by year during their dispersion, but understood not the deep significance of the ceremonies they performed. They had no conception whatever of the antitype to which these ceremonies pointed.

I need scarcely remind you of the great transactions of Last Pentecost, by which followed our Lord's death and resurrection and ascension. You will remember the account, of which our text is a portion. You remember that before leaving His followers our Lord informed them that His mission was not yet ended, and that although He had previously forbidden them to go to gentiles or Samaritans, He should understand that henceforth their message would be unrestricted to "him that hath an ear to hear," to whosoever of that nation their mission, their work, was to begin at Jerusalem. You recall further that our Lord admonished the disciples that they were not yet equipped for the work of the dispensation, and instructed them, saying, "Tarry ye at Jerusalem until ye be endued with power from on high." (Luke xxiv:49.) They probably knew not how long the tarrying would be, for "the holy spirit was not yet given, because Jesus was not yet glorified." (Luke vii:39), and they could not understand spiritual things until they obtained this blessing. True, a measure of the holy spirit had been on the apostles during our Lord's ministry, so that they worked miracles, healing the sick, casting out devils, etc.; but the power under which they then operated was not from the Father direct, but as imparted to them by our Lord Jesus, whose representatives they were in the teaching and preaching and miracle working. However, the Lord had promised them a recognition by the Father in due time, and it was for this that they were to wait.

They were not waiting as sinners for power for repentance, for they were already believers in the Lord Jesus, accepted Him, and, more than this, they were already consecrated to the doing of the Father's will. But, although every proper step on their part had been taken, they had not yet been acknowledged of the Father—they had not yet received the spirit of adoption into His family. They had left the house of Moses, the house of servants, and had attached themselves to Jesus, the Son of God, that they might be members of the household of sons. This privilege, however, had been accorded them (John 1:12); but now they waited for the matter to be made bonafide, actual.

Manifestations of the Spirit.

The descent of the holy spirit upon them might have been as quiet a matter as was the descent of the holy spirit upon our Lord Jesus at the time of his baptism—might have been to them a matter of consciousness alone. There is on the Lord's people today, when, becoming united to the Lord, they become partakers of His spirit and are adopted into the Father's family. However, it was not only in the interest of the early church, but in our interest also, that the Lord marked this great and important transaction with wonderful outward manifestations—the cloven tongues and flames of fire resting upon the heads of the disciples, possibly upon others, the rushing mighty wind filling the place where they were and causing some kind of sensation, the after miracle of the tongues and other gifts of the spirit. All these attestations to the momentous significance of Pentecost we may well rejoice in. They impress upon us the importance of the great events which on that day had their beginning.

What great events! We cannot but observe harmony with Peter's words that the events of that day signified, first: That the Lord, who had ascended from them 10 days before, had reached the heavenly country, the presence of the Father the evidence of His sacrifice and had made a portion of the merit of the same applicable to His people—to the household of faith—to all who would believe in and accept Him as their Savior. These things were shown back in the Mosaic types; the high priest, having slain the bullock, took its blood into the most holy and sprinkled it upon the mercy seat, to make atonement for his body (the under priests) and for his household (the house of Levi, which typifies the household of faith—all believers). As soon as the blood of the bullock was sprinkled upon the mercy seat, it pronounced absolution of sins for the particular class for whom the blood was applied, who, therefore, were thenceforward in fellowship with God and in harmony with the blessings he had to dispense. Justice relinquished its claim and divine mercy accepted the consecrated ones as prospective members of the body of Christ—as sons of God (John 1:12). Second: The sending forth of the holy spirit marked the "adoption" of these into the family of God, into joint heirship with the Lord Jesus Christ, or under another figure it marked their "espousal" as members of the prospective bride of Christ.

The Apostle Peter, explaining this matter, says that the Christ that was exalted to the right hand of God—that He had been received into the heavenly courts with glory and distinction as an overcomer, as one who had performed the Father's will, and to whom He had given the highest reward—a seat sitting down with the Father in His throne—the throne of the universe. The sending of the holy spirit upon his faithful followers was to be to them an evidence of their acceptance and fellowship with the Father through Him. (Rev. 11:21). Jesus, "being by the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the holy spirit (the holy spirit was promised to the Father), this which ye now see and hear." (Acts ii:33).

Prophecy Should Be Reversed.

Peter proceeds to point out that this pouring out of the spirit was a partial fulfillment of a prophecy made long before by the Prophet Joel respecting the "last days." We pause here to notice that this expression "last days" is generally misunderstood. It is generally regarded by those who study the subject that a day with the Lord is as a thousand years, and that the entire period from the creation to the full eradication of sin is a period of seven days, corresponding to the seven days of the week. Joel prophesied about 800 B. C., consequently before the middle of the great week of seven thousand years, and the expression, "in the last days," would therefore properly refer to the thousand-year periods with which the great week should close. As a matter of fact, this Pentecostal blessing occurred in the beginning of the fifth of these great thousand-year days. However, the Apostle Peter does not say that the Pentecostal blessing fulfilled all that was predicted by Joel, but merely that it was in his prediction—part of it. We see that it was but a very important part, it by no means represented the larger part of Joel's prediction. The larger part is to be fulfilled now shortly in the morning of the seventh of these great days—in the millennial morning.

Turning to Joel's prophecy we see that it has two distinct parts—one part exclusively for the Jewish nation, namely, "the house of Israel" and the other part for "all flesh." (Joel. 11:28-29.) Pentecost marked the pouring out of the spirit of the Lord upon servants and handmaidens, and the blessing there poured out has been flowing to us in a special sense throughout the gospel age. Pouring out of the spirit of the Lord "upon all flesh" is due at the inauguration of the "Kingdom of God's dear Son," when Satan shall be bound and when the sons of God shall shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father, for the blessing and refreshment and restitution of all the families of the earth. (Matt. xiii:43; Rom. viii:17-19; Acts iii:21.)

The statement of this prophecy is an illustration of the manner in which the Lord throughout the scriptures has stated His truth in such a form that its force and meaning should not be understood until the due time should arrive and His people should be guided by the spirit into the understanding of the same. The peculiarity of the statement is that the "residue of the spirit" is not merely for the first, and the blessings of this gospel age last so that this reversal of the order of occurrence has put a haze upon the whole subject. Nevertheless, when we rightly consider it, the statement is properly enough applicable to all including the church. The operation of God's love and mercy through and in conjunction with the atonement sacrifice of Christ is to bring the outpouring of the holy spirit upon all flesh, but this general outpouring will be after certain days represented in this gospel age, the fifth day and the sixth day—the fifth thousand and sixth thousand years of the great week—and hence it will be in the seventh. But the blessing of the Lord's servants and handmaidens will not be after those days (the fifth and the sixth days) but "in those days." The entire matter is simple enough, plain as could be, when once the eyes of our understanding open to a comprehension of the greater depths and heights and lengths and breadths of the love of God than we had at first anticipated.

Divisions of the Day of Atonement.

The same blessing is represented similarly in the types of the "day of atonement." That day was for the purpose of making atonement for the sins of "all the people"—all Israel, who typified all mankind of all nations redeemed by the precious blood of Christ, who will enter into covenant relationship with God at any time by reason of the blood of the atonement. After making this general statement respecting the whole work of the day of atonement, the type proceeds to particularize and tells first of the sacrifice of the bullock, and, as we have just seen, shows that its blood was applied in a restricted sense—not for all Israel—not for all the people, who will eventually become God's covenant people through the benefits of the atonement. The merits of the sacrifice of the bullock were typically applied to those constituting the under priesthood, the body of Levi, typical of consecrated, antitype of the little flock, the royal priesthood, the tribe of Levi, the priestly family, representing the antitypical "household of faith," developed before the millennial age. This first part of the atonement, we see, was separate and distinct from the after part of it, just as the Pentecostal blessing upon the church is separate and distinct from the after outpouring of the spirit, which is to be general—upon all flesh.

The second part of the atonement sacrifice, namely, the sacrifice of the Lord's goat—was performed by the same priest and represented the participation of the Lord's faithful footsteps followers with Him in this great work. It is His work, not ours; but He accepts us as members of His body and permits us as such to share with Him in His work of sacrifice. He permits us to suffer with Him, to lay down our lives for the brethren, "to be dead with Him," and in all this we are counted in as "filling up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ;" so that really the entire period from the Lord's baptism of the holy spirit down to the end of this age is the day of atonement. The important feature of it all was that performed by our Redeemer Himself, which He finished at Calvary. In consequence of that sacrifice, we, His consecrated followers, are "accepted in the Beloved" and privileged to die with Him as members of His body, to this end that the Pentecostal blessing of the holy spirit has been poured out upon the servants and handmaidens of the Lord throughout this gospel age—to enable them to walk in the steps of their Lord, to present their bodies living sacrifices, holy, acceptable to God, and—because counted in as members of the body of Christ and sufferings and testings accomplished.

According to the type, the completion of the church—the last member of the elect having made his calling and election sure, having finished his course with joy, having had fellowship with Christ in His death—the blood of the second sacrifice of the atonement will be offered to justice. It is all Christ's offering, since we are nothing of ourselves, but by virtue our entire standing before the Father as reckonedly members of the body of Christ—a royal priesthood under a royal high priest. As the Father accepted first of all the atonement sacrifice and blessed our Lord and sent the holy spirit upon the church, so, when the second sacrifice shall have been offered, we may be confident that the remaining portion of God's prophecy will have ample fulfillment—the holy spirit will be poured out upon all flesh.

Does Not Imply Universalism.

As the holy spirit was poured upon the waiting believers by the Lord, so the Lord and those believers glorified with Him in the kingdom will pour out the Father's blessing of restitution, of knowledge of God and enlightenment, upon all mankind; and in full harmony with this is the statement of the prophet respecting that glorious millennial period, "The knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the sea bed deep." "And they shall no more teach every man his neighbor and every man his brother, saying, Know thou the Lord, know thou the Lord, because all shall know Him from the least of them to the greatest of them, saith the Lord." This does not mean universal salvation, but a universal opportunity for securing "the gift of God, everlasting life," on condition of obedience. As the alternative of wilful sin now incurred by the "servants and handmaids" is second death; so the same alternative will confront the world "all flesh" when their day of enlightenment of the holy spirit during the millennium.

The servants and handmaidens of the Lord have needed the refreshment and guidance of the holy spirit throughout this gospel age, and we realize that it is only by its help that we fight a good fight against the world, the flesh and the adversary. Without it we should be unable to comprehend the spiritual things, and consequently unable to grasp the blessings that are freely given unto us of God in the present time, as well as unable to appreciate the things which eye hath not seen nor ear heard, nor hath entered into the heart of man—the things God hath prepared for those who love Him, which God hath revealed unto us by His spirit. (I. Cor. ii:9-10.) Oh, how much the Pentecostal blessing, the spirit of adoption, the seal of our sonship, means to us who are seeking to make our calling and election sure to those heavenly things to which the Lord has called us—the heavenly kingdom and its glory, honor and immortality!

Let us not forget, however, against a serious error into which many saintly people seem disposed to fall. They seem to expect Pentecostal blessings individually and collectively yearly or at least every few years, and some continually entreat the Lord in every prayer for a repetition of that Pentecostal outpouring of divine favor—the holy spirit. This is the result of a misconception. The Pentecostal outpouring of the holy spirit was not merely for nor upon the early church, but equally upon and for all of us who are their successors throughout this age. It needs no repetition. To illustrate: Consider a loaf of bread, upon whom first of all the holy spirit was poured forth by the Father at the time of His baptism at Jordan and at the beginning of His Ministry. He needed not to go yearly to Jordan to receive fresh baptism. He needed neither to receive them anywhere. The baptism which He received continued with Him—the holy spirit once granted was not withdrawn. Its withdrawal would have meant His death as a new creature. The blessing which came to the church at Pentecost was part of that same blessing which came to our Lord Jesus the Head.

The whole transaction was typically represented in the anointing of Aaron, the typical high priest. The anointing oil was all poured upon the head, and Aaron's head typified our Lord Jesus, whom God hath given to be the head over the church, which is His body. (Eph. 1:22-23.) God gave not the spirit by measure unto him, is the record—it was poured out without limit, without stint; but it did not reach the body until Pentecost. The body could not be accepted or recognized of the Father until the atonement for our sins had been made with the precious blood; but the atonement having been applied and accepted, the holy spirit was poured out. In the type this was represented by the holy anointing oil running down from the head to the body.

Church One Anointed Body.

Mark how the Prophet David draws this to our attention, assuring us that the anointing oil ran down Aaron's beard and over all of his body even to the skirts of his garments. The Pentecostal blessing is ultimately for all of the members of the body of Christ. When by faith and obedience, justification and sanctification, we come into membership in the body of Christ, we come under this which was represented in the type by the holy anointing oil—the antitype of which is the holy spirit. If ever we are "cut off" as branches which do not bear fruitage, it would mean our total separation from the Lord. Nevertheless it is entirely proper for us to pray with the apostles that the holy spirit may "abound more and more" in us, and to be in accord with our Lord's sentiment when he said that "the Father is more willing to give the holy spirit to them that seek Him than earthly parents are to give good gifts unto their children." This giving of the holy spirit enjoined in the scriptures and appreciated by us should not be confounded with the Pentecostal blessings, which was never repeated except on one occasion, namely, when the Lord marked the acceptance of Cornelius, the first Gentile convert, and thus taught us forever that henceforth there would be no distinction between Jew and Gentile as respects the favors of the divine promises.

We have been do we mean when we ask to be more and more filled with the holy spirit? If we do not mean new Pentecostal endowments? The thought is that when we come into union with Christ through the consecration of our hearts and wills, when we are accepted as members of His body, all the blessings of God represented at Pentecost belong to us, not as individuals but as members of the anointed church. As members of the anointed body, under divine favor and leadings, it is our privilege to grow in grace, in knowledge and in all the fruits of the spirit, and this properly is termed the filling with the spirit. At the beginning of our consecration, we surrendered our own wills that we might take the Lord's will in every particular, that we may have the Lord's spirit in respect to all of life's affairs; but it is not our will and another thing to receive. The surrendering of our will, so as to desire to have the heavenly Father's will, spirit, disposition, mind, dwell in us, is the act of a moment, but it requires days and months and months and years to become fully transformed by the "renewing of our minds." (Rom. xii:2.)

Gradually the Lord's favor toward us, as members of the anointed body, permits us to see the lengths and breadths and heights and depths in His love and in His character, and as we see this the transforming influences in our own thoughts and conduct progress. As the spirit of the Lord comes into our lives we come more and more to love things which at one time we did not love or appreciate, and to hate things which at one time seemed to have little or nothing objectionable in them. Right and wrong have remained fixed as they were; our views of them have changed as we have, under the guidance and blessing of the Lord, risen progress from grace and from knowledge to knowledge.

Unction from the Holy One.

Today, dear friends, as we call to mind the great Pentecostal blessings at the beginning of the age and how its favor has extended down from that time to the present time, let us rejoice before the Lord, giving thanks in Jesus' name for this great blessing, for the relationship which was there established between God and those who accepted Jesus as their Saviour, and who made consecration to Him and His service. Let us ever keep in mind that the benefits of this Pentecostal fellowship with God and anointing of His spirit is found in the sacrifice which was finished at Calvary, and that the Pentecostal blessings and favors could not come until He had died and ascended up on high, there to appear in the presence of God on our behalf, and there symbolically to sprinkle the blood of atonement by which our sins are canceled.

Correct thoughts respecting this subject will not only keep us very appreciative of the relationship which we enjoy with the Father and with the Son, and in fellowship one with another as members of the anointed body of Christ, but will ever keep us humble and respects our natural condition, for it will remind us that we are by nature "children of wrath" even as others, and require even as the world the forgiveness of sins through the merit of the precious blood. Nevertheless, all who receive the anointing of the spirit will be gradually, more and more, transformed thereby in thought and word and deed. Meekness, patience, gentleness, brotherly kindness, love— will gradually, more and more, be apparent, however "crooked" the natural disposition may have been. And it is our blessed consolation that the Lord accepts our heart desires in these respects in lieu of actual perfection, which will be impossible until we gain our perfect, resurrection bodies. (I. Cor. xv:42-44.)

Let us carry away with us another thought, namely, that the anointing which our Lord received and that came in due time upon His church, and in which we are sharers by His grace, is an anointing for service and for able service. In olden times the kings were anointed and also the priests, and respecting the church the Lord has informed us that we are a royal priesthood—that in the world both the kingly and priestly offices mingle, Christ being the Chief Priest and the Chief King, and we being His associates in the glorious commission represented in the two offices. He is to be the light of the world, to bring order out of present confusion, to destroy sin and everything contrary to righteousness, but He is also to be the Great Priest, the Great Teacher, the Great Helper, to assist sinners out of all the difficulties which they have come through disobedience, to bring back into harmony with God so many as are willing to be brought back. In this commission and glorious work of the future, we are to be joint-heirs if we make our calling and election sure, and we wait until the time shall come when the last member of the king and priest class shall have been approved of God, and the servant and the disciple of the coming blessings shall give place to the actualities of the kingdom and its gracious work on behalf of the world of mankind.

GREATNESS SHOWN IN DESPISING THE SHAME

The Rev. Huber Ferguson Spoke on the Elegant Example Shown by Christ.

The Rev. Huber Ferguson spoke in the Tenth U. P. church, Allegheny, yesterday morning on "Jesus Despising the Shame," and took for his text Isaiah liii:3, "He was despised and rejected of men." The pastor said in part:

It is one of the marks of Jesus' greatness that He "despised the shame" heaped upon Him. That His record to have a man of esteem, is not to be doubted, for He placed a higher estimate on man than did any other great teacher. When their withheld esteem curdled into contempt, and this to rejection, it brought Him keen pain. Yet He "despised the shame."

He was conscious that He was right. It was the will of His father that He should suffer in setting up the kingdom. It must go to Jerusalem and be crucified." He accepted the Father's will and drank the cup which could not pass from Him. "It is finished," was not the cry of a departing spirit, but the triumphant shout of one who felt he had done what God gave Him to do. There is no power able to transform a despised soul into a despising one greater than the consciousness that the very thing for which one is despised, is right. Such a consciousness puts iron in the blood, and gives nerve for any trial. This is the vital strength of all reformers, and enables reformers to despise the shame heaped on them.

Jesus was assured that by means of contempt of His shame, willingly to give His life holy spirit to them that seek Him than earthly parents are to give good gifts unto their children." This giving of the holy spirit enjoined in the scriptures and appreciated by us should not be confounded with the Pentecostal blessings, which was never repeated except on one occasion, namely, when the Lord marked the acceptance of Cornelius, the first Gentile convert, and thus taught us forever that henceforth there would be no distinction between Jew and Gentile as respects the favors of the divine promises.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN LOCAL MARKETS

Flour Showed Strong—Orange Market Is Booming—Better Berries and Melons.

The grocery market attracted more attention than usual last week. Owing to the backwardness of the season and the poor condition of growing winter wheat, the wheat market was very strong. The mills accordingly advanced flour and local jobbers followed the action of the millers with slight advances. Spring patent was put up 10 cents. Winter patent is now quoted at $5 and $5 10 by the biggest jobbing houses in the city. This is the selling price to the retail trade, notwithstanding reports last week that the winter patent was bringing much higher prices. During the week sugars were also advanced and navy beans showed easier. Coffee was about steady and teas were fairly active; so were rice and prunes. The prune supply is very large just now and prices are as low as they generally get.

The orange market improved considerably again last week in the face of heavy offerings. It is believed that advancing prices and the all-around good condition of the California crop is largely to be accounted for by the lack of trade in the cities. The policy of scattering carload lots in small towns seems to have been abandoned. The practice is said to have killed the trade in the towns to which the shipments were made, as well as the trade in the large cities. Dealers in small cities and towns now come to the big centers for their fresh fruit.

Lemons showed better last week. Reports from the east were that only 165,000 boxes are afloat for New York in seven steamers, and that these will be sold inside of four weeks. Inasmuch as the season is late and the supply in the country has been very limited, there is every reason to believe that a very firm lemon market will rule from this time on. There was good trading in bananas and unusual demand for the early shipments of California berries. Potatoes were pretty firm and old stock was advanced. Onions were about steady. Good strawberry stock was scarce, the Carolina crop having been about exhausted all week. Maryland will arrive next week. A few Tennessees were being sold Saturday at $2 50 per crate. Cabbage moved freely, and among new arrivals were a few boxes of cantaloupes from Ocala, Fla. The acreage there is about the same as last year, and the outlook for a big crop is said to be excellent. The same territory will have a fine crop of watermelons. Both cantaloupes and watermelons will be on the Pittsburgh market in fair supply by the end of next week, it is thought.

Poultry looked up some and dressed stock was in fair demand at the close of the week. The season is generally unfavorable for this line because springers are not ready for use and old stock is generally cleaned up. Very little was said about butter or eggs here last week. Butter seemed to move out rather freely and demand was good. The prices of two weeks ago held on eggs all last week. Good stock sold at 15c, despite the fact that storage men are buying, prices stay up, good stock bringing 18 cents.

Timothy hay was firm all last week, offering at $17 50 and $18 and selling pretty close to the former figure. Arrivals were light. One car of No. 1 clover hay sold at $12 on "change Saturday. Straw was very scarce and is commanding very high prices. Oats were not changed, but the market was firm. So little good corn is coming in that it is hard to fix a quotation on No. 2 grades. Middlings are still bringing big prices because mills are closed down pretty generally. Otherwise the good pasturage would send the quotations down rapidly.

STOCK MARKET STAGNATION IS LIKELY TO CONTINUE

Uncertainties Cloud Outlook—Dullness Under Existing Conditions Normal and Probably Benefit to Situation in Wall Street.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 22.—Developments of the week in Wall street and throughout the country generally were of a character which threw much light on the problems of the future. Stocks stagnated, disclosing no definite tendencies, unless the incipient bear panic in the last 15 minutes of Saturday's business may be termed such. Bond dealings contracted upon the exchange, and according to dealers showed some trifling hesitancy elsewhere, as contrasted with the recent spurt, which developed at the time of the satisfactory sale of New York city 3½ per cents. The easing is more likely to be in the nature of a bull following, active dealings or in anticipation of new issues, which may be offered at attractive prices than anything else.

As has been contended, however, for some time dullness under existing conditions is normal, and probably the very best thing that could happen to the market. It is not an agreeable condition for brokers with heavy expenses to contemplate, but there seems little if any prospect of any break in the monotony for some time. Many uncertainties cloud the outlook as to the harvest outcome, the increasing depression or ultra conservatism in business and possibilities of the national elections, with its prospect of money, tariff and trust agitation. None of these present absolutely unsurmountable obstacles to progress and this country has a way of meeting and solving its problems satisfactorily. It is better to be safe than sorry, however, and while uncertainty prevails in so many directions, caution, tempered by hope, not reckless over-confidence, will be in order with business men. Aside from the developments in the money market, few of the week's events presented anything of a novel nature. There was the same series of mixed traffic returns, with, however, a generally unfavorable tendency, which has now become so pronounced that investors everywhere show a natural hesitancy in purchasing railway stocks for investment, in consequence of their inability to determine the question of the maintenance of existing dividend rates.

Unquestionably some railway shares at existing prices might shade dividends, and upon the basis of normal money rates, not be regarded as selling at exorbitant figures. But it takes more nerve and confidence than most investors possess to buy railway shares when general business is undergoing a period of depression or sharp contraction and when earnings are declining. If the period and extent of the commercial recession could be determined, the purchase of good railway shares at such times would be but a matter of discrimination. The difficulty is, however, that no one can ever determine such features in advance, and in consequence the market is deprived of initiative purchases, except such as originate from the professional element taking advantage of some technical situation, an over-extended short interest or the like.

Up to this time, for a presidential year, the present interval has been exceedingly free from strikes and labor disturbances. In fact, it has been singularly free from demonstrations of such nature, even when compared with normal years. About the most serious of the lot is the strike just declared of the International Freight Handlers' and Warehousemen's union against the Fall River line, in this city, which is tying up New England freight. While there seems no good ground for fearing that this difficulty will extend widely, it is a fact that labor is imitative, unionism a sort of freemasonry, and that it takes but little through the sympathy of labor for labor to extend such difficulties. Reference to labor as a possible disturbance in the future is pertinent at this time, however, only in so far, as in the past, presidential election years seem to be those selected by agitators to foment difficulties, possibly as a means of assisting one party or for the purpose of gaining concession from employers, or even more material benefits from another party, to whom labor disturbances would be unwholesome. The famous Homestead strike and the anthracite coal strike of 1900 are cases in point. Considerations, such as the foregoing, may render it difficult at this time for corporations to work economies by general wage reductions.

WHEAT RISES AGAIN ON CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Corn, Oats and Provisions Show Slight Falling Off in Price.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 21.—Enormous sales of cash wheat in the northwest caused strength in speculative options here today. July wheat closed with a gain of 1@1¼c. Corn is off a shade. Oats are down ⅛c and provisions a shade to 7½c.

Excellent growing weather and large Australian shipments had a depressing influence on the wheat market at the opening, but the uncertainty of the situation in the May delivery held the bears in check and prevented any considerable selling. Initial sales on July showed a loss of a shade to ¾@⅞c, at 86⅝c to 86¾c. May was unchanged at 99c. In the absence of any great demand for the May option the price of that delivery eased off a trifle, declining to 88⅝c.

As the session advanced a number of bullish factors came into prominence. A foreign statistician in an estimate of the world's shipment for the week showed a large falling off, while at the same time claiming a heavy decrease in the visible supply. Later there was considerable purchasing on the belief that the local stocks of contract wheat would show quite a decrease on Monday. The predominating influence, however, was the reported sale of 1,000,000 bushels of cash wheat at Minneapolis to country millers. There was an active demand from northwestern houses. The market closed almost at the top prices, final figures on July being at 87⅞c after the price had touched 88c. May closed at 89¾c, a net gain of ⅞c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 191,000 bushels, primary receipts were 146,800 bushels compared with 357,400 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 92 cars, against 99 cars last week, and 188 cars a year ago.

During the early part of the session a bearish sentiment was manifested in corn due to ideal weather condition. Offerings, however, were not large and prices sustained only slight losses. Later in the day the market became firmer in sympathy with the strength of wheat. A decreased movement in the west indicating a partial exhaustion of stocks was a late bull factor. July opened ¼@⅜c to ⅝c lower at 48@48¼c, sold up to 48¼@48⅜c, and closed at 48⅛@48⅜c. Local receipts were 117 cars with seven of contract grade.

The feature of trading in oats was furnished by the May delivery. Under the leadership of a big holder there was some heavy selling in that option resulting in considerable weakness early in the day. Nearly all the loss was later regained on covering by shorts. Deferred futures were adversely affected by favorable weather conditions. After opening ⅛c to ⅜@¼c lower at 38⅛@38⅜c to 38⅝c July ranged between 38⅛@38¼c and 38⅛c, closing at 38⅛c. Local receipts were 122 cars.

Provisions were easy on outside liquidation and on selling by packers. Large receipts of hogs and lower prices at the yards were the principal selling moves. July pork closed with a loss of 7½c at $10 95. Lard was down 2½@5c at $6 27½@6 20. Ribs were off a shade, closing at 86 35@6 37½c.

Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 4 cars; corn, 119 cars; oats, 110 cars; hogs, 41,000 head.

The leading futures, reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., members of the Chicago board of trade, Farmers Bank building, are as follows:

LONDON MARKET HOPEFUL.

Investor Returns to the Fold. American Outlook Is Considered Confused.

LONDON, May 22.—(Special Cable.)—In the breasts of city men hope springs eternal and those who have taken advantage of the Whitsuntide recess to go for a day or two to the country, coast or continent, feel much encouraged at the stock market outlook. The growing ease of money accentuated by two successive reductions in the bank rate, bringing it down from 4 to 3 per cent, has naturally helped the rise in prices, but the chief reason for improvement, is to be traced to the return of the investor to the fold.

Still the fact remains that the eve of the holiday, with a settlement in immediate prospect thereafter, is naturally a dull time, and it is not surprising that business has been somewhat slack during the last few days. On the whole, however, prices have been well maintained and the usual process of evening up books has not caused anything like a setback. Americans go from bad to worse and another severe slump would appear to be exceedingly probable. Even the oldest hands in the market admit the American outlook is confused and muddled to an exceptional degree and that it is impossible to do more than guess at the outcome.

In addition to the coal acreage above mentioned, the Company holds and operates under leases from the Shaw Coal Company and Midland Coal Company 8,400 acres Pittsburgh coal, and all of the coal of the company, except the Hocking Valley coal, is situate within 25 miles of Pittsburgh.

CAPITALIZATION.

The Company has capital stock outstanding as follows: Preferred Stock	$30,716,200 00
Common Stock	30,135,000 00

The Company was organized in 1899, and has since paid regular quarterly dividends of seven (7%) per cent per annum upon all of its preferred stock.

The Company at its organization had about 80,000 acres of coal in fee and 2,700 acres under lease, located in disconnected properties, equipped with machinery and appliances to a great degree long out of date, costly and inefficient of operation, and practically no coal handling and dock facilities. During the four years of its operation additional coal lands, equipment, transportation, dock and other properties have been purchased to protect its property as a whole and to make it connected, efficient, economical and altogether modern, so far as the production and marketing of its products are concerned. In acquiring the new properties and modern equipment for these purposes, about $40,000,000.00 have been expended, of which $14,268,974.91 have been paid from the Company's surplus earnings and reserve funds.

Following is a condensed summary of the principal expenditures made since the organization of the Company for new properties and other assets not covered by the original issue of the capital stock of the Company:

Purchase of 82,524 acres of coal and 7,401 acres of surface lands in the Pittsburgh District. Purchase of 7,809 acres of coal and 3,782 acres of surface lands in the Hocking District of Ohio. Lease of 8,400 acres of coal in the Pittsburgh District, embraced in the tracts of the Shaw Coal Company and the Midland Coal Company.	$16,509,000 00
Purchase of all of the Midland Coal Company's improvements and equipments, consisting of three mines in operation, 400 miners' houses, etc., etc. Purchase of entire plant and equipment, including 130 coke ovens, 30 miners' houses, etc., of the Colonial Coke Company. Purchase of the entire plant and equipment, including 400 railway cars, of the Mansfield Coal and Coke Company. Completing the development and equipment of the Midland Coal Company's mines and the development and equipment of the Shaw Coal Company's mines; enlarging the plant of the Colonial Coke Company by the addition of 270 new ovens and completing equipment in connection with the same; fitting out and equipping machine shops and electrical repair shops at Scott Haven and at Woodville, Pa.; enlarging brick plant at Manown, Pa.; developing and equipping Banning No. 2 Mine; developing and equipping Idlewood Mine; completely overhauling, renewing and improving the mine properties originally purchased at the time of organization of the Company, so as to bring them up to the highest possible standard of efficiency in the production of coal at low cost.	3,000,000 00
Purchase of the yards, equipment, good will, etc., of the Pioneer Fuel Company of Minnesota, in connection with the ten-year lease of its docks at Duluth, Minn., and Gladstone, Mich.
Purchase of the controlling interest (251-300) of the Ohio Coal Company of Wisconsin, with docks at Duluth, Minn., and Milwaukee, Wis. (the latter through the Ohio Coal Company's ownership of two-thirds of the capital stock of the Whitnall Coal Company).
Purchase of the controlling interest (¾) of the C. Reiss Coal Company, with docks at Sheboygan, Ashland and Manitowoc, Wis., and Escanaba, Mich.
Purchase of controlling interest (2-3) in the Milwaukee-Western Fuel Company, with docks at Milwaukee, formerly operated by B. Uhrig Fuel Company; H. M. Benjamin Fuel Company, F. R. Buell Coal Company, George S. Eastman and R. P. Elmore Company.
Purchase of controlling interest (¾) in the Western Coal & Dock Company, with docks at Waukegan, Ill.
Purchase of new coal unloading plant at Cleveland, Ohio, connected with the track of the Erie Railroad Company; constructing new dock of Western Coal & Dock Company at Waukegan, Ill.; constructing new dock of the C. Reiss Coal Company at Sheboygan, Wis.; enlarging and improving the docks of the Milwaukee-Western Fuel Company, the Whitnall Coal Company at Milwaukee; enlarging and renewing the docks of the Ohio Coal Company, the Youghiogheny & Lehigh Coal Company and the Northwestern Coal Railway Company, at Duluth, Minn., and the docks of the Youghiogheny & Lehigh Coal Company at Chicago, Ill., and installation of additional modern equipment at all of the docks and yards owned by this Company of its subsidiary companies on the Great Lakes.	3,500,000 00
Purchase and construction of new and standard railroad cars; constructing and equipping car shops at Montour Junction, together with additions and improvements to Montour Railroad and Pittsburgh & Moon Run Railroad.	1,600,000 00
Purchase of Capital Stock of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company and other companies.	6,200,000 00
For additional quick assets (coal in transit and on docks, other merchandise, cash accounts and bills receivable, etc.,) in excess of original assets or working capital, supplied at time of Company's organization.	10,000,000 00
Total	$39,800,000 00

EARNINGS.

The production and the net earnings of the Company have been as follows:

	Coal Mined Tons.	Coke Mfgd. Tons.	Net Earnings.
1900	12,824,559	30,004	$3,181,567 00
1901	11,929,501	19,987	3,099,538 00
1902	14,903,351	67,730	4,706,587 00
1903	15,514,618	149,842	6,751,025 00

We expect in the near future to get our output up to 20,000,000 tons per annum, and when we do so the Company should easily earn, after deduction of all sinking funds, $10,000,000 per annum.

In the above figures of acreage, production and earnings, no account is taken of those of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company, a controlling interest of which is owned by Pittsburgh Coal Company.

Yours truly,
FRANCIS L. ROBBINS,
President.

Brooklyn at St. Louis.

If Pittsburgh should want to release Pitcher Camnitz, the youngster secured by President Dreyfuss from the Cotton States league, the Baltimore Eastern league club would do business for him. A report comes from Baltimore that Hanlon thinks well of the young southerner and will begin negotiations with Pittsburgh for his release.

President Dreyfuss left for New York on Saturday night, and therefore it was impossible to have him either affirm or deny the story last night. It is a fact that Dreyfuss is perfectly satisfied with his pitching corps and is not on the hunt for more pitchers, and in the pipe dreams that have been afloat for some time, and it would not be surprising to learn of Camnitz's release to Baltimore.

Camnitz, however, might enter a protest by being sold or given to the Monumental City people, inasmuch as Lew Moren claims he did not get the proper treatment from that club. Moren and Camnitz are good friends, and after the Duquesne Heights boy relates his experience with the Baltimore people Camnitz is liable to prefer the Cotton States league to the Eastern.

Moren, who arrived home late last week from Baltimore, where he received a very chilly reception from the club management. The manager treated him very coolly and the only player who showed any desire to be friendly was Phil Lewis. It did not take Moren long to make up his mind to "blow."

Moren is undecided as to where he will play ball. He has offers from many minor leagues and he is much in demand by independent managers. Manager Kisinor of Homestead would like to have him, as would "Marty" Hogan of Youngstown. If he stays at home he may pitch for Lew Wentz, manager of the Pittsburgh Athletic club. It was Wentz who brought him to the front.

Tom Cosgrove. Miles has been playing short on the Rochester team. Drahar has been coaching for Beaver college. Lonaconing needs a fast thirdbaseman, and it is probable Mullen of Rochester will be signed.

OVERTRAINING IS A BAD PRACTICE

Dr. Shrady Points Out Evils of Too Much Work by Young Athletes.

SOUND ADVICE IS GIVEN

By DR. GEORGE F. SHRADY.

A series of articles giving sound and practical advice to boys on how to develop their bodies in a sensible manner without overtraining will appeal to everyone having the real good of the growing youngsters at heart.

It is said that only 15 per cent of the young men born in our great cities succeed in business. As a rule the country lads become the strong, resourceful men in after life, and much of this is due to the fact that they have 10 times better chance of physical development and exercise than the city boy, in spite of our numerous gymnasia with their complicated and so-called developing apparatus.

Nothing is better for a boy than exercise in the proper way. A sensible way of living is the foundation for all physical development. Give a boy plenty of good food and plenty of sleep, but do not experiment with him on the basis of mere muscular development. He is a child of nature and should follow his bent.

The children of today are under too many restrictions, too much discipline. The child of the rich is under the eye of the autocratic nurse; the poor boy is under the discipline of the imperious and exacting employer; as to opportunities for rational exercise, they are all growing up under unnatural restraint. The nurse tells the rich child what he shall eat, and for this reason many of the young millionaires are starving for want of proper, wholesome food. There are now so many absurd theoretical notions concerning the relative value of different food products that the children who have apparently the most care are really the ones that are most neglected. The poor boy who eats everything he can get is always more than a match for the machine-fed weakling.

Too much cannot be said against the use of cigarettes among our city boys. There is never any excuse for this hurtful habit. Tobacco in any form is injurious to the brain and nerves of the growing youth, besides being harmful to his digestion, his throat and his lungs. If he must smoke when he comes to the years of discretion he may then be able to decide on his own account if it is worth while to try.

Of liquor the same thing and more may be said of its detrimental influences. It has never been of any essential benefit to a healthy person, though it may be used to great advantage in cases of sickness when prescribed by a physician.

There is in fact no degree of moral or physical degeneration that cannot be reached by a persistent indulgence in the habit. Not only does it dull the intellect, weaken the will, lower self-respect and degrade the moral responsibility of the individual, but there is hardly a chronic or incurable disease of after life that does not owe its beginning to this abuse of alcohol.

In the matter of exercise I am strongly opposed to all machine methods. Let our boys have plenty of exercise, but give them freedom to have it their own way. True exercise is not a matter of so many motions of particular muscles, so many exercises with a weight and so much running on a level floor.

By all means let the boys get out in the open air and they will find some more legitimate way of amusing themselves. A boy does not vault by rule, nor turn somersaults by music, but if left to himself he will get as much free and healthful exercise in an unlimited out in nature. He is a colt, only in another sense, and should kick, jump, gallop and roll in his own way.

We have recognized the importance of physical development, but we should be careful and not overdo the thing. There is too much overtraining. Our physical instructors are not satisfied with going ahead gently, but spur their pupils to make absurd records, and in the end their objects were destined for a circus or race track.

Health is not benefited by the mere development of muscle. Strength consists of the vital organs constitutes real health. A man with big biceps may have a weak heart. He may be able to lift hundreds of pounds and still have poor lungs.

As a rule the school hours are too long. A child cannot keep his attention directed on mental work for more than three hours continuously; anything over that is usually wasted, and more would be gained by giving our boys more opportunities in the open air.

It has been said, and with some justification, that our city children are under a disadvantage physically as compared with the children of the country, but they do not use even the opportunities which are open to them. If every boy would make it a rule to run around three or four city squares every morning he would not need a gymnasium.

Our gymnastic teachers are too prone to forget that the harmonious development of the body is the main thing. Many a strong body has been ruined by overtraining in an effort to do better than someone else.

The interest in athletics is often going too far and in the wrong direction. Boys will conceal their physical defects
